REAL ESTATE BOARD AGAINST CITY FIRE TAX

Claims Amount Excessive and Says Present Assessments Are 'Unfair.'

MILLER ANSWERS LETTER

Councilman Supporting Levy Declares Board Has No Reason To Complain.

First opposition to the proposed half mill tax levy to modernize the city's antiquated fire fighting apparatus was voiced today by the Mansfield Real Estate board which charged that the tax would be an added burden to real estate "which is now carrying an unfair portion of the cost of government."

A letter from the board addressed to council stated that although it approved a plan for the rehabilitation of fire equipment that it considered the cost of the tax levy "excessive."

Fred Miller, chairman of council's finance committee, who announced last week that the committee would recommend passage of the levy, said that the real estate board had no reason to complain of the tax burden.

"Mansfield's present real estate tax, $16 per thousand dollars of assessed valuation, is one of the lowest in the state," said Miller. "Real estate assumes no more cost than is fair considering the protection afforded it by city services."

The real estate board proposed that the fire equipment be built up by paying part of the cost from "other" sources and reducing the levy amount. No explanation was made of what "other" sources would be used.

The letter also suggested that regular replacement for the department's equipment be made annually out of the present revenue "instead of allowing equipment to become obsolete or to necessitate additional taxes on real estate."

Council, canvassed last Saturday, expressed unanimous approval of the levy plan. Miller and other members of the committee requested other city services to refrain from attaching "riders" to the levy. They pointed out that a one mill levy last year was defeated because too many services were included.

The tax levy was proposed after city's "rattle trap' fire equipment broke down three times within two days after the $100,000 Home Material lumber yard blaze on April 20. Booster pumpers No. 3 and No. 4's trucks failed on April 21 and 22. Last Monday, the chain of the No. 3 booster broke again.

If approved by council, the levy would go on the primary ballot in August.

Mansfield Stores Ready for Spring Sales Tomorrow

Mansfield Days, the city's big annual spring shopping event, will get under way Friday morning and 52 merchants today are completing preparations for the bargain days.

Hundreds of special values in late winter and spring and summer merchandise will be offered by the 52 merchants who will participate in Mansfield Days. Stores will observe the usual hours during the event Friday and Saturday.

The city's merchants are advertising some of their bargains for Mansfield Days in today's News-Journal. Hundreds of other items not included in the advertisements will be offered at reduced prices Friday and Saturday.

Firms participating in the sales event will display yellow and black banners and pennants in front of their stores or in the windows. Also identifying the participating stores will be the letters "R. M. A." on the banners, showing membership in the Retail Merchants association, sponsor of Mansfield days.

For the convenience of shoppers Mansfield Rapid Transit, Inc., will provide free bus transportation downtown for shoppers from 9 a. m. to 11:15 a. m. Friday. Fare will be collected on the return trip.

City Clears Path to Build B. & O. Span

Gives State Assurance It Will Pay Its Share of Project's Cost.

Mansfield today had given the state department of highways assurances that it will pay its share of the cost of the $249,000 Baltimore and Ohio railroad grade elimination project on West Fourth street.

City council met the state's deadline for setting up the funds last night when council transferred $6,000 from the general fund and authorized a $25,000 bond issue to cover Mansfield's portion of the total cost.

The legislation was passed in a special session of council at the request of the state highway department which informed the city that it was holding up the construction of the overhead crossing by its negligence in providing finances for its share. The state said that it wished to advertise for bids today and would be unable to do so until the city acted.

Council had previously indicated that it would pay $31,000 towards the project but had made no provision for the setting aside of funds. Its finance committee last week announced its plan for the $25,000 bond issue but was not going to recommend it until next Tuesday.

The city had agreed to pay the $25,000 this year and the $6,000 from the general fund in 1942. Because no administration can assume a debt without making arrangements for its retirement, the $6,000 had to be set aside from the general fund at present.

Mayor William J. Locke said today that he had been under the impression that the $6,000 was to be paid immediately and not next year. He said that this money could be used for many needed projects.

Fred Miller, chairman of the finance committee, said that the cash had to be set aside this year

PLANT CLOSED

Wage Dispute Causes Work Stoppage at Warren.

WARREN — (AP) — A dispute over wages and dismissal of 156 workers today closed the Packard Electric division of General Motors corporation, a major producer of wire for the aircraft industry.

Nearly 1,600 employes were made idle as the CIO United Electric, Radio and Machine Workers of America called out its members and established a picket line at the plant's main gates.

Fred Haug of Sharon, Pa., international union representative, said the union regarded the dismissal of 156 workers in the plant's rubber and wire mills as a "lockout" of these men. The company attributed dismissals to lack of materials, Haug declared, but said he understood the departments were being operated with men from other parts of the plant.

A tax appraisal filed in surrogate's court today disclosed that she left a net estate of $74,783. The sole heirs are two nieces, Helen J. Campbell of Toledo, O., and Margaret A. Taylor of Asheville, N. C.

CITY MAPS NEW PAY SCHEDULE

Council Committee Approves Wage Boosts For Workers In 3 Departments.

Wage increases for workers in the city's street, waterworks and sewage disposal plant will be recommended at council's meeting Tuesday by its salary committee, Councilman Harry M. Emmons, chairman, announced today.

Eleven street workers, five waterworks employes and five workers at the sewage disposal plant will benefit by the increases, Emmons said. The chairman also announced that the committee would ask seniority rights for all Class A or civil service laborers.

The increases were decided upon after workers in several of the city's departments petitioned council for boosts in wages to meet the increase being given by private manufacturers. The workers claimed that their wage scale lagged behind those of employes in other classifications.

Emmons said that the seniority insurance would be asked to check any attempt to lay off veteran workers to give work to political favorites. Several civil service workers had complained of such a practice within the past few years.

The committee released a schedule for proposed wage increases which it will recommend. Emmons emphasized that the schedule is SAPULPA, Okla. — (AP) — If "Aunt Lizzie" Deevers wasn't in bed with influenza, she'd be celebrating her 110th birthday today by walking down a church aisle—a bride for the tenth time.

The bright-eyed, witty little Sapulpan, feeling "fresh as a flapper" and itching to be up and about, admitted she was in love again, this time with John Knight, a 77-year-old neighbor.

"I'm just a fast-steppin', giddy girl," she said. "We're goin' to get married soon as I'm able to get up and cook."

Lewis Calls for Knudsen Removal As Foe of Labor

HARRISBURG, Pa.—(INS)—Removal of William S. Knudsen as chief of the office of production management in the interest of defense speedup was recommended today by John L. Lewis, head of the powerful United Mine Workers.

Lewis called the Detroit industrialist a foe of labor, blamed him in part for the production bottleneck and urged that he be curbed or removed from office.

"The defense program is not as perfect as it might be," said the union leader. "Selfish interests have been able to make a profit out of the nation's distress."

Addressing a testimonial dinner tendered Philip Murray, president of CIO, Lewis accused Knudsen of "doing his country a dis-service" by maligning labor, and recommended a larger role for labor in government.

FUND GROWING

$4,365 More Received, Leaves $25,388 To Be Raised.

With preliminary reports showing new pledges totaling $4,365 received today, Mansfield Community Fund workers to date have raised $38,986.75 toward the $64,375 goal.

Jane Williams, executive secretary, said that final reports at the noon luncheon meeting of workers today will probably increase the early estimates on today's receipts.

Pledges made so far leave a balance of $25,388.25 to be raised in the seven days remaining in the drive.

The half-way mark in the drive was passed yesterday and workers were urged by divisional majors and Rev. D. N. Roller, campaign chairman, to wind up the campaign by Saturday, four days before it is scheduled to close.

COMMENCEMENT SET FOR JUNE 5

282 Mansfield Seniors Will Be Graduated; Names of Pupils Announced.

A class of 282 Mansfield high school seniors, smallest June graduating class since 1937, will receive diplomas at outdoor commencement exercises Thursday evening, June 5, at Stadium field, it was announced today.

The class will include 133 boys and 149 girls. It will have 27 fewer graduates than the 309 who received diplomas last June.

The smaller class this year reflects a decrease in the size of families which began to show in grade school enrollment several years ago, Supt. W. L. Miller said.

Last year's class, however, was one of the largest in the school's history. In 1937 there were 232 graduates, 50 fewer than this year.

Supt. Miller was attempting today to book a speaker for the commencement exercises. He said several he had contacted have previous speaking engagements.

This year's outdoor exercises will be the fourth in the history of the Senior high school. The plan was launched in 1937, but rain that year forced a last-minute shift to the high school auditorium.

A stand will be erected for the speaker and school officials facing

Sale of Defense Bonds Opens Today at City's Postoffice

Mansfield's part in the nation-wide sale of defense savings bonds and stamps got under way at the postoffice quietly today, H. E. Homberger, postmaster, said.

"The postoffice has sold some stamps and there have been inquiries concerning the bonds," Homberger said.

The sale started throughout the nation following a radio appeal last night by President Roosevelt.

The chief executive asked that the public sacrifice some luxuries and buy the stamps and bonds to help finance the $35,000,000,000 defense and British aid programs.

Sale of the bonds and stamps began officially when Henry Morgenthau, jr., secretary of the treasury, sold the first bond and ten of the first stamps to the president.

The new securities were offered for sale today across the counters of thousands of postoffices and banks. The president said that "sacrifice is not the word" and explained that this is an opportunity to share in the defense of all the things we cherish against the threat that is made against them.

F. D. R. ORDERS FLEET TO TAKE WAR SUPPLIES

President Reported Ready To Requisition Refugee Vessels in Port.

ROBSON GIVEN TASK

Ex-Fruit Company Executive Expected to Divert Great Lakes Craft.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—By order of the president, the maritime commission today began rounding up "at least" 2,000,000 tons of cargo ships to form a great fleet which will carry abroad "vital war materials" now piling up in American ports, and bring in the raw stocks needed by defense industries.

President Roosevelt, himself, was reported ready to order the prompt requisiting of refugee vessels in United States ports as one of the first steps toward the objective.

Requisitioning of 69 Axis and Danish vessels aggregating 300,000 tons would provide—as a starter—approximately 15 per cent of the 2,000,000 tons the president called for "at the earliest possible moment" to transport the raw materials required by American defense industries and the war supplies needed by nations resisting aggression.

"Vital war materials are piling up at the ports or delayed at the factories," Mr. Roosevelt declared. "We must supply those ships and at once."

The president emphasized the urgent need for increased shipping facilities last night in instructions to Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the maritime commission.

Land was directed to "secure the service of at least 2,000,000 tons of merchant shipping" and to plan operations so as to "make their cargo space immediately effective in accomplishing our ob-

4-YEAR-HIGH

City's Bank Clearings In April Hit $9,757,565.

Reflecting the best retail business and money turn-over since 1937, Mansfield bank clearings in April reached a four-year high of $9,757,565, Dale Kaylor, secretary of the Clearing House association, said today.

Clearings were more than 27 per cent ahead of last April and $209,000 better than March of this year, previous high for 1941.

Kaylor said clearings for the first four months of the year amounted to $36,038,523, an increase of nearly $6,000,000 over the corresponding period of 1940.

If the same rate of increase continues, the city's bank clearings in 1941 are expected to top the 1937 high of $101,770,000 and may exceed the all-time high of $109,500,000 in 1929.

Move Second Contingent to Oil Territory

Action Taken Despite Protests From Baghdad Government as Plains of Mesopotamia Loom as Future Battlefield of Near East.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(INS)—Italo-German troops penetrated the outer defenses of besieged Tobruk this morning. Tobruk, on the Libyan coast near the Egyptian frontier, has been cut off by land for more than a fortnight. British insist that the beleaguered garrison can be evacuated by sea if necessary.

(By International News Service)

LONDON—Defying objections of the Iraq government, a second large British military contingent has landed on Iraq territory, official British circles revealed today.

According to quarters the landing, carried out under terms of the Anglo-Iraq treaty, was accomplished without incident. The troops are now proceeding to Basra, near the shores of the Persian gulf, it was stated.

Several days ago the landing of the first British contingent at Iraq was officially announced. At that time it was stated that the troops arrived with the approval of Iraq authorities.

Today, however, officials revealed that the Baghdad government had voiced strong objections to the landing of the second contingent, which was described as a large and strong one.

In its protest, the Iraq government took the stand that no further British troops should be landed until the original contingents disembarked at Basra had been moved into the interior of the country.

Britain took the view that this stand was in violation of the long-standing treaty between Britain and Iraq, which provides for "unimpaired passage of British troops" and the use of Iraq bases.

Plans to evacuate British women and children in preparation for early transformation of the Mesopotamian plains into a battlefield are being left to the discretion of British Ambassador Sir Kinaham Cornwallis at Baghdad. The evacuation was believed to have been started to a minor degree at least during the recent government crisis in Baghdad, when a pro-British regime was supplanted by one friendly to the Axis.

Apparently determined to safeguard her own interests in the Near East regardless of present or future protests, British authorities are improving communication lines in Iraq and are setting up new bases for use in supporting Palestine, Syria or Turkey in event of attack upon any one of the three.

In addition, augmented military guards have been assigned to police the Iraq oil fields and the vital pipe-lines leading to the sea.

Greek Forces Rescued Along with British

CAIRO — (U.P.) — Greek fighting forces which desired to continue fighting the Axis were rescued from Greece by the British navy in connection with the evacuation of at least 80 per cent of the 60,000 imperial troops, it was stated today by well-informed sources.

WARNING: Soviet Commissar Cites Preparedness In Talk

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW—A warning by Defense Commissar S. K. Timoshenko that Soviet Russia is ready "to offer an annihilating rebuff to any encroachment by imperialists" ushered in a great display of the Red army's might today as the Communist party celebrated May day in traditional fashion.

Timoshenko's warning was issued in a special order of the day acclaiming Russia's achievements during the past year and emphasizing steps taken to reorganize her armed forces "in the light of experience and modern warfare" at the behest of Joseph Stalin.

He declared it is the Soviet government's intention to adhere to a peaceful policy, but asserted soberly that "the present international situation is pregnant with all kinds of surprises."

"In these conditions," Timoshenko said, "the Red army must keep its powder dry and be in constant mobilization and preparedness so that no 'accident' and no tricks of our foreign enemies can catch us unawares."

Timoshenko, who was named defense commissar a year ago and charged with the task of overhauling the army, called upon Soviet workers to labor ceaselessly to help "consolidate the defensive capacity of the country."

Moscow's great Red Square as usual was the center of the nation-wide May day demonstration. Government leaders assembled there to review a gigantic parade of troops and workers.

Stalin himself watched the spectacle.

Massed columns of troops, mobile guns, tanks and other military equipment flowed through

WEAKNESS: Blitzkrieg Seems To Soften After Fortnight

By J. W. T. MASON, United Press War Expert.

The successful evacuation of 80 per cent and perhaps more of the British expeditionary force sent to Greece strengthens previous indications that a German blitzkrieg expends its force quickly and remains weakened until it can acquire a fresh impetus. A comparison of the Greek retirement with the Dunkirk evacuation gives some indication of blitzkrieg limitations.

It would seem that if a blitzkrieg meets serious opposition, it is not able to continue its characteristic rapidity of strong pressure for much more than a fortnight. Thereafter, time seemingly must be taken for recuperation even though an opportunity may exist for trying to deliver a final crushing blow.

The German blitzkrieg against Yugoslavia and Greece started on April 6. It was on April 21 that the Greek government informed the British high command that evacuation of the British army should begin.

That was 15 days after the commencement of the Nazi offensive and almost simultaneously the German push at Thermopylae showed elements of weakness. The Germans slowed down their drive at the time when they should have redoubled their efforts, since their air reconnaissance must have acquired information of British preparations for leaving Greece.

To destroy the comparatively small British force, which now

Destroyer Meets Sub Drops Depth Charges

Explosions Rock Ship, But Blotch of Oil Is Only Hint of Outcome of Strange Sea 'Battle'

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the last of three articles by Kenneth Downs, International News Service Foreign Correspondent, describing his rescue by a former United States destroyer in mid-ocean when the convoyed ship in which he was traveling to the near east caught fire.)

By KENNETH DOWNS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, (delayed by censor)—When daylight came, the old ship was a smoldering derelict. Rain during the night had put out the fire in the superstructure, but smoke still billowed up from the holds.

The commander of our destroyer waited until it was light enough to see whether any stray rafts might still be in the vicinity of the stricken vessel. When he saw there were not he passed an order to the chief gunner. A broadside roared, then another, and another.

My ears were ringing as the old ship rolled over on her side and quietly slid from view. Her propellers were the last we saw of her. Farewell, I thought, to my new African war kit, my new typewriter, my papers, my extra pair of pants.

That ended the excitement, we thought, but not for long. Within half an hour we had received orders to proceed to a certain area and take up positions for an anticipated naval battle.

We plunged along through the heavy seas. As the day wore on I made the acquaintance of the ship and the men. Almost everything on the ship, from the table service to the asdic—the famous anti-submarine detector—were American.

Everything was marked U. S. N. The men of the crews were a tough but cheerful lot who have been through everything and are ready for anything. There were veterans of Narvik and Mers-el-Kebir, old tars who had fought Chinese river pirates, veterans of Jutland. Among the survivors were seamen who had picked up survivors of the Jervis Bay.

They all spoke highly of the Lincoln. Especially the survivors. Had it not been for the Lincoln, many of us would have gone down the day before.

We were still headed toward our battle position when the alarm bells rang and the first officer sang out:

"Action stations!"

Before I could scramble up to the deck there began a series of dull explosions which jarred my bones and seemed to make the very metal plates of the destroyer ache. Depth charges.

Above, the gunners were at their posts. Members of the crew and survivors were mustering on deck with life preservers. Officers worked intently in the asdic room. A submarine had been detected.

A pale moon lit the sea whi was now calm. We circled sw ly and soon there was another series of shattering explosions as we loosed a second dose of depth charges.

Once more we swung back. There was a large patch of oil on the water. We didn't know whether it was from the submarine or from the charges. We swept the locality for the rest of the night. We never heard or saw another trace of the submarine.

I asked the skipper if we had sunk it. He didn't know, wasn't sure enough to report a kill, not having seen the wreckage. The asdic operators were convinced we had sunk it.

We proceeded on the next morning toward our destination. Then we learned the battle was not going to come off after all. I am not at liberty to reveal details, but had any German ships appeared they would have run into a terrible surprise.

We received new instructions and headed out in another direction to pick up a large convoy headed for England. We sailed two days, ever on the alert—these destroyers are all eyes and ears. Then in the afternoon we sighted a dot on the horizon. It was the first ship of the convoy.

Silently, one by one, they loomed large into view, a great parade of warships and merchantmen. Signals flashed to us and we took up our position on the right flank.

From there on our formation changed constantly. Warships entered and left our procession. We switched positions, we altered course. Escort planes from land and sea circled overhead. Signals flashed constantly from ship to ship, the signal lamps blinking like bright eyes from far away vessels. It was a mystifying, thrilling spectacle.

There was one air raid warning, but no enemy planes arrived. We arrived in a British harbor without a scratch. We hadn't had our clothes off in six days. Our young skipper hadn't been in bed throughout that time. Whenever he caught a few winks of sleep it was in his chair, ready to spring to action on moment's notice.

As we pulled into port I asked Petrie, a 17-year-old survivor if he still intended to go into merchant service after the war.

"Not me," he said. "I'm going to try for a destroyer."

The chief signals officer, a blond young man of 24, said:

"This war can go on forever as far as I'm concerned. Can you imagine me going back to work in the Bank of England after this?"

Reports from Europe indicate that the Greek island of Crete, where the Greek government under King George II has been newly established, may be next on the German list of objectives. Pennsylvania School Will Be Open All Year

WAYNESBURG, Pa.—(INS)—Because Jefferson Borough voters turned down a $350,000 bond issue which would have provided a new school building, Jefferson district high school will be operated throughout the year.

Working on a quarterly basis, pupils will be required to attend three quarters each year and vacations will be doled out accordingly. Principal O. G. Enstrom said the school expects to have an attendance of 650 this year, whereas the school was built to accommodate 450. He added:

"Every effort is going to be made to permit those pupils who have definite plans for employment to have the summer months as their vacation."

CANCER VICTIM OUTLOOK BETTER

Columbus Physician Reports Great Reduction In Mortality Rate.

COLUMBUS—A "definitely more encouraging" outlook for cancer of the stomach sufferers was reported today by Dr. William J. Morrison of Columbus.

Writing in the May issue of the Ohio State Medical Journal, Dr. Morrison said a study of cases treated from 1930 through 1940 at the Columbus free cancer clinic showed a "great reduction in mortality and an increased percentage of operability" for the disease.

Dr. Morrison credited the improved outlook principally to improvements in surgery and diagnosis.

"Their (the patients') hope depends upon early diagnosis and adequate surgical treatment when the lesion (diseased area) is pathologically young," Dr. Morrison wrote.

Clinic statistics, he added, showed that in many cases six months is too long to delay in seeking attention after symptoms first are noticed.

The 10-year clinic survey, he said, showed that pain, either mild or severe, was most often the first symptom. Next noticed was loss of weight, then general weakness, run down condition, malnutrition and jaundice.

Greatest contributions to diagnosis in recent years, Dr. Morrison said, are the spot-film x-ray, which helps a physician to distinguish between ulcer and cancer; the gastroscope, with which the doctor actually sees into the stomach, and peritoneoscope, with which the abdominal cavity can be examined.

FUTURE BRIGHT FOR RAILROADS

That's Opinion of Engineer Who Watched Trends For 49 Years.

(By United Press)

PITTSBURGH — A railroader who observed the trends of rail transportation for 49 years believes the greatest days for railroads lie ahead.

"I am very optimistic concerning the future of railroads," said Rudolf P. Forsberg, chief engineer of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad when he retired.

"In my 49 years of service, railroads and railroading certainly have been improved from top to bottom," Forsberg said, "and I believe the greatest days lie ahead." He cited the development of the automatic block signal system and standard installation of air brakes as examples of past railroad achievement.

However, the 70-year-old rail veteran thinks all transportation systems should compete on a "fair field and no favor" basis, with only such governmental help as is necessary to co-ordinate the nation's facilities. He advocated control insofar as the limitation of the various systems to hauling cargoes for which they are best equipped.

Forsberg began his career at Roanoke, Va., as a draftsman for the Norfolk & Western Railroad in 1891. The following year he transferred to the P. & L. S. here in the same capacity. By gradual promotion he became chief engineer in 1931.

WILLED TO U. S.

MILD RECOVERY TREND SHOWN ON MART TODAY

But Leaders Continue to Keep Backward Tendencies; Rise Noted In Commodities.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Minor recoveries appeared in today's stock market but many leaders continued to exhibit backward tendencies.

In early transactions gains were posted for Youngstown Sheet, Republic Steel, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Anaconda and Kennecott.

Lacking support were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem and Sears Roebuck.

Commodities displayed further moderate rising inclinations.

Items studied in boardrooms included:

Dividends declared in April by 873 corporations aggregated $208,384,003, largest for any like month since 1937. April stock market activity, however, fell to the lowest level since 1918.

The Engineering News-Record placed heavy construction awards for the week ended Tuesday at 93 per cent above the 1940 period and 11 per cent higher than last week.

IDAHO LEADS IN POWER USE

MOSCOW, Ida.—(U.P.)—Although only a tenth of the state's power resources have been developed, Idaho uses two to two and one-half times as much electricity per person as the rest of the United States.

A University of Idaho professor, J. Hugo Johnson, says 64 per cent of occupied Idaho farms have electric service, compared with a national average of less than 28 per cent.

Reason for the heavy use of electricity in the state, says Johnson, is a power rate of 2 cents per kilowatt-hour, half the national average of 4 cents.

Grange Meeting — Members of Columbia grange will meet for the regular session Saturday at 8 p. m. at the grange hall in Lexington. The moving picture, "Singing Wheels" will be shown. The meeting is open to the public.

MANCHUKUO 9TH MOST POPULOUS LAND IN WORLD

86-Day Census Shows Density of 33 Persons For Each Square Kilometer.

(By International News Service)

PEKING, China—For the first time since the Imperial Japanese army wrested Manchuria away from China to form the Empire of Manchukuo, a national census was taken. Figures released by the Japanese experts in Hsingching show a population of 43,233,954.

The experts declare that this makes Manchukuo the ninth largest nation in the world, ranking next to Italy and surpassing the population of France by 1,400,000.

Hsinching authorities boast that despite the greatness of the country, compilation of the census returns required but 86 days.

The ratio of males to females in 123.8 males to 100 females, it is revealed, and declared to be high compared with other countries.

The density of population was found to be 33 persons per square kilometer. Manchukuo has an area of 1,303,143,252 square kilometers.

This density is declared to be low compared with other nations. For comparison it is pointed out that Japan proper has 190 persons per square kilometer, Germany 135, and Britain 195. However, compared to Soviet Russia with 8 and the United States with 17 persons per square kilometer, the Hsinching authorities find their own density of population high.

Mukden is Manchukuo's largest city with a population of 1,135,801. Harbin is second with 661,984 while the capital at Hsinching has 554,202.

CLASS OF 87 TO GET CITIZENSHIP EXAMINATIONS

Applicants For Naturalization To Appear Before Judge at Courthouse Tuesday.

A record class of 87 foreign-born residents of Mansfield and Richland county will go before Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston Tuesday for their final examination for citizenship papers.

It is believed that the class tops the previous high by at least 10. The gain was credited to the nation-wide drive for citizenship during recent months.

Representing virtually all of the European countries, the applicants for naturalization have been studying in the county WPA adult education classes and the special night school conducted at the courhouse by Miss Henrietta Frank in preparation for the examination.

Questions will pertain to city, county, state and federal government, names of public officials, and subjects of general interest.

It is expected that the examinations will require less time than previous sessions since character witnesses for most of the applicants appeared at a hearing several weeks ago for questioning. In the past each applicant for papers has been required to bring two witnesses with him when he appeared for the final examination.

Bomb-Wrecked Evacuation Ships In Greece

This radiophoto from Berlin shows destroyed British troop transports at Piraeus, port of Athens, after Nazi airmen raided the port while British and Anzac troops were attempting to evacuate the Greek peninsula. In the foreground is shattered artillery aboard a vessel which suffered a direct bomb hit. Despite the Nazi air raids, the British claim to have evacuated 45,000 of their force of 60,000.

Moose Lodge Installs at Ceremony at Home.

Lester A. Raby, governor and other newly-elected officers of the Mansfield lodge, Loyal Order of Moose, today had been installed in office following impressive ceremonies at the Moose home on North Walnut street.

Pearce, sergeant of arms; Carl Rupp, inner guard; Willford Hipp, outer guard and John Eberhart, assistant sergeant of arms. Nate Brumbaugh, governor of the Dayton lodge, was the installing officer.

Officers of the Galion, New London and Mt. Vernon lodges were also installed at last night's ceremonies.

A class of 49 candidates was initiated prior to the installation, with the Dayton degree team, state Moose champion, conducting the ritualistic work.

Paul W. Ritchie, retiring governor, was presented with a gift.

More than 300 attended the installation-initiation which was followed by a lunch.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, MAY 1, 1941.

Even if you do enjoy working in the garden, your muscles will probably feel sore about it.

Nothing much having been heard of the case recently, it may turn out that Harry is one of those suspension Bridges.

As to that newly formed Nazi-controlled government in Athens—the courageous Greeks probably have a word for it.

Stop Waste of Defense Money!

SO MUCH has already become a matter of record in connection with charges of waste, incompetency and graft in various phases of the national defense program, that recent utterances of Joseph W. Martin, Massachusetts Republican congressman, are neither surprising nor startling.

It is unfortunate that repetition of charges comes from a source which involves the appearance of partisan bias, for this is a subject entirely outside party politics and one which demands the earnest attention of every American citizen.

Asserting that the public should demand that national defense be managed, controlled and produced by trained and experienced military and naval experts, with the help of honest and experienced managers of industry and leaders of labor, Congressman Martin said: "This is no time to turn over to New Deal theorists the management and production of our national defense. They totally lack the necessary training, temperament and ability to do the job."

According to Mr. Martin, "congress is not being told the truth about the waste, inefficiency and corruption now going on."

With billions of dollars made available for defense and non-defense spending, and with Harry Hopkins seeming to represent President Roosevelt's ideas of the type of experience and capability required for this gigantic task, the deep concern being felt in many quarters is apparently justified.

Money dealt out in millions and billions can scarcely fail to attract conscienceless grafters and racketeers to the green fields of easy pickings and the likelihood of their success is augmented by lack of efficient direction of vital defensive activities.

Congressmen have a right to know that the billions of dollars they are appropriating will be honestly and intelligently expended. Taxpayers also have a right to know this—and the young men who are in training camps, as well as others who are soon to go, have a right to know that they are not the only ones who are being called upon to make sacrifices.

Industrial Speed-up Necessary

NOT ONLY does this country need the mines producing coal in adequate quantity, without interruption, but it needs the whole industrial machine functioning smoothly and effectively.

Industry has done well, everything considered. But it will have to do still better to meet the pressing needs of the times. This is a war of machinery and machine products, and Britain and America are competing with a system that has had several years' start of them. American industry alone, when it gets going at top speed, can produce more of the things needed than all the rest of the world together. But the catching-up time is hard.

America "expects every man to do his duty," wherever he is or whatever his place in the vast organization. Our national front is the industrial production line, and there has to be continuous operation behind the line, too, to bring up the materials.

Fritz Kreisler and John Doe

EVERYBODY regretted that Fritz Kreisler, famous violinist and composer, was seriously injured a few days ago when struck by an automobile while crossing a New York City street.

Because of the prominence of the victim this traffic accident attracted widespread attention. But, barring this prominence, the happening was so commonplace as to merit no more than brief local mention.

Thousands of pedestrians are hit by automobiles each year, hundreds of thousands of motorists are injured and around 35,000 persons are killed in traffic accidents each year in the United States.

Motor vehicles play no favorite in choosing victims, and in their smaller circle of relatives, friends and acquaintances every person who is thus injured or killed occasions as deep concern and grief as is experienced when some nationally known man is involved.

When public conscience is aroused to the extent that people feel as greatly distressed over the injury or death of John Doe and Richard Roe in traffic accidents as they do over the injury of Fritz Kreisler, or some other person of note, they will demand—and get—greater safety on streets and highways.

Watching Those Woods Twins

THE CAREERS of John and James Woods, nine-year-old twins of New York City, were supposed to prove something or other. When they were infants, Johnny was separated from his brother and parents and reared scientifically. He seemed quite remarkable, too, in the attainment of early skills in use of mind and muscles. Jimmy, meanwhile, stayed at home and was treated about like any healthy baby in a normal family.

When the boys were two years old, or thereabouts, Johnny went home and began to live just as Jimmy did. It wasn't long before they were about equal in ability to do all the things normal children of their age should do. When they started to school, however, Jimmy began to show a little edge over Johnny. On the eve of their recent birthday, Jimmy was a grade ahead of Johnny in school and beat him at marbles.

It's too bad Jimmy got ahead in school. That may be as hard on him as on Johnny. And it's to be hoped he doesn't win all the games. There should be plenty of give-and-take between children. Companionship rather than rivalry might be more wholesome for these twins, too. As for scientific upbringing, fortunately it does not have to stand or fall on this single experiment.

It could scarcely be escaped that someone should express hope that Hitler will finally get anzers in his panzers.

When it comes to increasing taxes the government never puts it to a vote of the people.

HIS CHANCE TO HELP

Talk About Non-Defense Spending

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—It's too soon to begin worrying, if you are a farmer growing wheat, cotton, corn, tobacco or rice, but there is a school of thought which, should it happen to appeal strongly to President Roosevelt and to congress at some stage of this war, may cost all of you, collectively, around a billion dollars a year.

The point is that under the present agricultural policy, about that amount is paid each year to the farmers who grow—or have stopped growing—those "basic" commodities. Actually the word "basic" sound as it may seem to the average citizen, is a bit humorous if one considers money values.

For example, total receipts from cash sales of tobacco were $241,000,000; cotton, $677,000,000; all grains, including wheat, corn, rice, soybeans, rye, barley and oats, only $995,000,000.

But meat animals, not a "basic" agricultural commodity within the meaning of the law, reached nearly $2,500,000,000—more than ALL the "basic" commodities put together.

OF COURSE it will occur to any critic that much of this huge sum realized from meat animals was corn and oats and other grains consumed by those animals, and NOT included in the cash sales of the grains. Even with this in mind, however, the figures are rather startling.

Then there is the fact that dairy products brought in cash sales of more than $1,500,000,000—more than 50 per cent in excess of all grains. Here again, obviously, the cows ate a lot of grain, part of which did not figure in the cash sales.

The fact that cash sales figures are being talked around Washington, in an effort to show that the "basic" agricultural products are a joke, is all the more interesting because of this curious lack of consideration given to the value of grain fed to animals to produce meat or dairy products.

People often get slants from the first statements of situations they hear, which they hold tenaciously long after the premises of the original statement have been demolished. All propagandists know that, and work on the theory that if you say a thing often enough people will believe it, even if they forget the details of the argument that convinced them in the first place.

ALL of which has a bearing on the present tax situation, because sooner or later there is going to be a terrific outcry from the country for non-defense spending to be cut. Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, jr., has already made some suggestions to congress with respect to the wisdom of cutting some farm payments. Nobody has taken it seriously, so far, but the germ is there, and agitation is at work for a big cut.

This cut is not likely this year, but it is certainly something to be considered as possible for next year, or the year after. For bear in mind that this tax load is not going to be reduced for a long time. It will not be reduced, for instance, if peace should come in 1943, for a good many years after that. If peace is deferred longer than 1943 there is no use figuring about it at all, because it is pretty nearly a certainty that there will be still another boost in taxation, or that we will be forced to inflation.

Who Makes Wars?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

DO MEN make the wars? And would women stop them if they could have their way?

Louise Anderson, of 744 East Fillmore street, Phoenix, Ariz., believes they do—and they could. And thinks something should be done about it, pronto!

"Since women came out of the obscurity of their kitchens," says she, "they have demonstrated fully and conclusively that they can do any task a man can do, except a few requiring great physical strength. But how much voice have women when war is declared, though they bear the heaviest brunt of it? They don't even have the excitement of conflict to carry them through but must just wait and hope.

"Males love to fight. Watch two kindergarten tads flying at each other with their tiny fists. War is the grown-up equivalent of the same urge. It is a male game, and since time immemorial men have told women that war was necessary and they must make the best of it.

"But war is not necessary. They never really settle anything. There would be no wars if women had their way. The women of all nations are sick of war . . . sick of raising sons to be killed or crippled.

"Men have had their day. Their way has proved a failure. They should sit back now and allow a congress of women from all nations to meet and state in simple terms what each nation wants. Difficulties could then be adjusted peacefully and necessary compromises made."

It's a lovely picture, Louise, and I'm all for it. But I'm afraid I can't share your faith in our sex. I'll admit men like to scrap and we women are all heartily sick of the consequences. But that doesn't put us in the Dove of Peace class—not by a million olive leaves. To the contrary, all history's dreary evidence goes to prove the ladies carry a larrup peculiarly their own and fully as potent as the males.

We may not square off at each other with our fists, though I've seen it done with much mutual satisfaction. But a couple of Beautiful Dolls can cut each other into ribbons faster with a few honied phrases than a Gang Mob could with a flock of machine guns. It wasn't the braves who gave the final and fiercest tortures to the captives, sister; it was the squaws.

The tragic truth is that the seeds of war are in our own hearts, regardless of our sex or occupation. And war is only one of their manifestations. As long as we envy, as long as we cheat and covet, as long as we permit poverty and stupidity and festering hate in our midst, there will be war. Every slum is as surely a sign of war as every cannon. There's only one cure for it all. Maybe some day we'll grow old enough to try it. It's love.

Timely Editorial

When War Hysteria Appears.

War-time breeds the peril of "witch hunts" in the high sounding name of patriotism. This country has been fortunate in escaping much of such frenzy so far. But it has appeared in Pennsylvania where the state Senate has passed a bill calling for the dismissal of public school teachers found guilty of "un-American teaching or activity."

No one wants disloyalty in the schools. However, the cause of enlightenment is not served by meddlesome censoriousness by persons and groups who are absolutely certain they have the true brand of Americanism which gives them the right to judge and condemn all teachings and all utterances. Wise school executives can keep the schools sound without any new laws for "witch hunts."—Toledo Blade.

Aircraft Carriers for Sea Patrol, Will Use Planes to Spot U-Boats

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—There are several important developments behind the plan to make the North Atlantic safe for "all" ships of "all" nationalities.

One is the conversion of the old battleship Wyoming into an aircraft carrier. From its decks, after conversion, airplanes will scout the North Atlantic for submarines.

The Wyoming is the oldest battleship in the navy, and came near being scrapped at the London naval conference of 1930. However, the Japanese wanted to keep one of their old battleships as a training ship, so the United States countered that it would keep the Wyoming. Otherwise she would be scrap iron today—and probably sold to Japan. As a training ship, her big guns were removed, but the Wyoming still can serve as an effective airplane carrier—especially in the North Atlantic.

Another development is the plan to take over the French luxury liner Normandie as another aircraft carrier. Incidentally, the Normandie will be used not by the U. S. navy, but will be under Henry Morgenthau as part of the coast guard. It will be the biggest vessel used by any coast guard in world history.

The Normandie was secretly designed by the French for conversion into an aircraft carrier. A huge sports deck was built so that it could be quickly changed into an airplane landing deck. Two elevators were even installed at each end of the ship for the hoisting of planes.

Nazi Submarine Tactics.

THE use of airplanes in spotting submarines in the North Atlantic was worked out partly as a result of Nazi tactics in locating British vessels. For some time the Nazis have used airplanes to spot British convoys, then radioed their location to nearby submarines, usually lying in nests of three or four awaiting signals.

When the submarines attack, one usually acts as a decoy and draws the British warships off to one side, while other Nazi subs drive in for the kill. That, plus the fact that 20 or 30 merchant vessels now travel in a convoy train, is one reason why ship casualties have been so heavy.

From their vantage point above the water, airplanes can look down upon submarines lurking below the surface, and if the weather is clear, can spot them miles away. The navy has some airplanes especially equipped for this type of patrol work, carrying eight depth bombs each.

Some planes also carry a new submarine detector which can pick up the sound waves from undersea motors. A few of these planes, sold to the British, were used in the Mediterranean and partly explain why the British navy suffered so little damage from submarines in that area.

The navy and coast guard plan to use this aerial technique in the western Atlantic, leaving the eastern Atlantic to British patrol. Patrolling the eastern Atlantic from the air is not difficult for the British, since they can base their planes on land, in fact have been operating such patrols for some time.

Big question of course is: "How far out at sea will American planes and ships patrol?" Judging by the hints President Roosevelt dropped last week, the 1,000-mile limit will be subject to considerable stretching.

Power From Uranium.

THE most closely guarded defense secret in the country today is the scientific work in progress on U 235, a uranium isotope, which if successfully produced in sufficient quantity will revolutionize world sources of power.

This fabulous substance, discovered two years ago, is produced by subjecting metal uranium to a process of atom-smashing. One pound of it, combined with ordinary water, would release energy enough to take the place of millions of gallons of oil or millions of tons of coal. So far, however, is has been isolated only in minute quantities.

Laboratory research on a method of producing U 235 in amounts large enough for practical use is going on 24 hours a day behind locked doors at Columbia university and the University of California, which are equipped with atom-smashing cyclotrons. In rushing their secret experiments, U. S. scientists know they are in a race with the Nazis.

German researchers also are working day and night to produce the same magic element. In fact, military experts are convinced that one motive for Hitler's seizure of Denmark last year was the experiments being carried on by Dr. Neils Bohr, Nobel prize winner of the University of Copenhagen. He did the original work on U 235.

In this fateful race, the United States and Canada fortunately have an abundance of raw material. They possess almost inexhaustible quantities of uranium bearing ores, such as pitchblende. The Great Lakes region of Alberta abounds in pitchblende, while large deposits are also found in Utah and Colorado.

However, Hitler's occupation of Czechoslovakia provided him with an abundant supply, too. It was pitchblende ore from Bohemia that was used by the Curies in their research leading to the discovery of radium.

Paradoxical British.

PARADOX in the new North Atlantic patrol belt is that the British will benefit from something they once protested so vigorously—stretching the three-mile limit for prohibition enforcement.

It was just 11 short years ago that the coast guard—which now will hunt Nazi submarines 1,000 miles at sea—shot down and sank the Canadian rum-runner "I'm Alone" 250 miles off the Louisiana coast in the Gulf of Mexico.

Immediately a terrific howl went up from the British. The Canadian government protested, exchanged a long series of notes with the state department, and in the end the sinking of the vessel was submitted to international arbitration. Supreme Court Justice Van Devanter was the arbiter for the United States, and joined with the Canadian jurist in finding that the coast guard had exceeded its authority in chasing the "I'm Alone" beyond one hour's cruising distance from shore.

So Canada got a monetary award, and the ship's captain got damages despite the fact that the "I'm Alone" was found to have been owned by American, not Canadian, bootleggers.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—A cross section of the laity has decided that a ham and an acre of land on a Virginia hillside should reward Ethel Barrymore for her performance in "The Corn Is Green" this season. Mrs. Roosevelt is coming down from Washington to make the presentation at the Astor on May 12, and Miss Barrymore has decided the ham will come in handy for midnight lunches and unexpected guests who drop in on her at vague hours. She hasn't made up her mind just what she will do with the land grant.

If you are puzzled as to why a ham and an acre are designated as a gift to a Broadway actress, it should be remembered that this is the award of the Barter theater at Abingdon, Va., where money is never used and where the actors work for bacon, corn pone, and similar victuals. Each season it sends its composite "board of inspection" into the New York theater to select a performance deemed most worthy.

This year's "board" consisted of two preachers, two physicians, two first nighters, two habitual balcony sitters, and two students. After closely examining the Broadway scene it decided in Miss Barrymore's favor, and now she not only will have a ham and an acre but the privilege of naming two deserving young players who will be given a season's employment at the Barter theater. Last season the award went to Dorothy Stickney, of "Life With Father," and the year before to Laurette Taylor of "Outward Bound."

RUSSELL CROUSE and Howard Lindsay would like to know why Friday night audiences laugh longer over their comedy, "Arsenic and Old Lace," than any other. Held up by prolonged laughter, the Friday evening performance is invariably 15 or 20 minutes overtime. The property man for "Arsenic" also complains that his labors are multiplied by the Friday performance. His job is to tighten the seats at the Fulton theater, wrenched loose by customers while laughing at the antics of Boris Karloff and Allyn Joslyn.

TECHNICALLY, Katherine Cornell is right when she says she does not like to be called an actress. As the boss of her own production, she prefers to be known as an actor-manager. This is another of those gramatical instances where the masculine always embraces the feminine.

Two proud fathers of a kind are Ernest Truex and Sinclair Lewis. Their sons are both in the army. . . . They wanted Mrs. Emlyn Williams to accept another of those "best play" awards, but she was already on her way to join her husband, by clipper, in England. Williams is the author of "The Corn Is Green," but at the moment he is helping Mr. Churchill fight a war. The two Williams children remain on Robert Montgomery's farm at Brewster, N. Y.

As for Mr. Montgomery himself, the news is that he will come to New York for sure in the fall and make a belated appearance on a Broadway stage. The drama probably will be produced and directed by Elliott Nugent. It isn't generally known, but Montgomery had a stake in Nugent's successful "The Male Animal" last season.

A Farmer's Diary

Mule Team

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I WENT into a friend's barn just at sunrise, and the mules were braying. The very rafters seemed to shake with the wild sound.

Where I entered, between the mows of the barn floor, a farm wagon, a side delivery, a binder and a riding cultivator were sheltered. One mow was still half full of clean mixed hay, the other was heaped with shredded fodder. High up beneath the comb, sleepy white and gray pigeons cooed and fluttered. Deep narrow streaks of morning light sifted through the narrow cracks of the east gable and pierced the shadowy gloom. Countless dust particles moved animatedly within the long, longitudinal beams.

I heard the farmer's step in the feeding entry below stairs and as I descended the creaky steps littered with hay and fodder, he greeted me with a broad smile and a cheery "Hello." I could not help but admire his strong broad shoulders and his stocky muscular body.

"I thought I heard voices down there," I said, and smiled.

"Them mules nigh raise the roof sometimes," he grinned. "They ain't modest. Nobody can misunderstand when them boys speaks." He indicated the long-eared brown and white team, now busily munching oats and corn at opposite corners of a wide stall. I followed him into the stable where they stood, but did not go too near.

Cobwebs hung like ropes from the massive girders overhead. The stable had not been cleaned out for several days and the litter of bedding reeked with ammonia and intimate animal odors until my nostrils pained. My farmer friend got out the metal currycomb and steel brush. Dark clouds of dust rose from the animals' hips and flanks with every stroke.

"How old are they?" I asked.

"They were ten when I got 'em and I've had 'em ten years," he said, "but at that they'll still do more work than any team around. These two are the toughest rascals I ever owned.

"They sure can take care of themselves. They never get sick. They won't drink when they're too hot from work and they won't eat too much. When they're tired they'll lay right down—and get up again without tangling the harness.

"This'n here—" and he stroked the flank with the stiff brush until the animal winced yet seemed to like it—"if I treat him rough he'll remember it a week. He won't look cross and put back his ears like a horse, but he'll whale away at me without warning.

"Yesterday our littlest boy tapped the dinner bell a few taps in the middle of the forenoon—and these mules stopped. B'lieve it or not, I had to unhitch and feed 'em a little before they'd work again. That bell meant eat to them—and you can't change a mule's mind."

BRITISH MOVE MORE TROOPS TO OIL COUNTRY

Send Second Contingent Into Iraq Despite Protests From Baghdad.

fore abandoning their war materials in Greece, it was added.

There was hope that still more of the fighting men from Greece, both British and Greek, would yet reinforce the army of the Nile for the impending struggle in the eastern Mediterranean.

It was indicated plainly that the evacuation, carried out from open beaches, was still going on and that only the last of the rear guard, the little suicide corps that was still fighting the Germans against overwhelming odds, would be lost.

The communique, telling for the first time a considerable part of the last days in Greece, was issued by general headquarters of the middle eastern command.

It was disclosed that the Germans had so ruined the ancient port of Piraeus, the port of Athens, that it was unuseable so embarkation from open beaches, as at Dunkirk, was necessary.

It was disclosed also that key men of the expeditionary force had been evacuated by transport plane.

The communique emphasized that the evacuated troops had kept all their fighting equipment, though they had been compelled to abandon much heavy equipment and transport, and were convinced of their superiority over the Germans, in a fight on equal terms, both as individuals and as units and formations.

R.A.F. Returns To Attack on Germany

LONDON—(INS)—British bombers once more hammered the northwestern German naval base of Kiel during the night and also attacked other German ports and cities, including Berlin.

An official air ministry announcement stated:

"Last night Kiel was the main target of the R. A. F. Berlin, Hamburg and Emden also were attacked."

(Editor's note: A German announcement said British raiders dropped bombs on the outskirts of Berlin and attacked northwestern coastal districts of the Reich, where explosive and incindiary bombs "killed and injured several civilians.") seems to have numbered scarcely more than 60,000 was Hitler's major objective. Yet, he failed, apparently because his blitzkrieg had not the necessary reserve power.

Since April 21st 10 days have elapsed. It can be assumed that the evacuation was organized and became effective during that period and by now is almost wholly completed.

As more and more British troops left Greece, the opposition to the German advance necessarily declined in power. It might be concluded that the Germans would have acquired relatively greater strength and would have been able to overwhelm a large part of the retiring British. Instead, the blitzkrieg seems to have stood temporarily impotent.

The same situation prevailed at Dunkirk. The German blitzkrieg collapsed, for the time being, at the moment when it might have gained a startling triumph by destroying or capturing almost the entire British army.

Even with the legislation passed, the papers had to be rushed to Columbus before noon today to allow the state to advertise for bids for materials. A. H. Moellenkamp, district planning engineer, took the papers to the capital.

Council completed the necessary business in less than a half hour. Following the transfer of the money from the general fund and the authorization of the bond issue, Auditor Paul Kelley signed a certificate testifying that the funds for the project were available. The final resolution was passed only after a premature motion for adjournament was withdrawn.

Fire In 90-Year-Old Lexington Building

Volunteer firemen, shown above, battle flames which destroyed a three-apartment building in Lexington Wednesday afternoon. An oil stove explosion in the apartment of Mrs. Ia Devine while she was absent was blamed for the blaze. The explosion was heard, and fire discovered by Mrs. Arthur Sherman, who resides in an adjoining apartment. The 90-year-structure, formerly a church, is owned by Jesse Clark, who occupied one of the apartments. The fire destroyed the building and most of the household goods owned by the three families. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

the square in a seemingly endless procession as formations of warplanes roared overhead.

Following the military show more than a million civilians swarmed across the vast square chanting patriotic songs.

The streets were bright with red flags and banners emblazoned with Communist party slogans in which the theme of "peace - through - preparedness" predominated.

"Long live the foreign policy of the Soviet government—peace between peoples and security for our country," read one of the banners, and another said: "Toilers of the Soviet Union—don't forget the capitalistic encirclement. Let's strengthen infallibly our Red army and our socialistic rennaissance."

Military demonstrations were staged in other cities throughout the country and there were great displays of aerial strength in 50 localities.

In his order of the day Timoshenko credited the "wise Stalinist foreign policy" with enabling Russia to remain at peace in a world at war—"an impregnable rock in the midst of the stormy sea of international events."

He called the neutrality pact with Japan, signed April 13, an achievement of "great political significance," furthering Russia's policy of peaceful relations with her neighbors.

Want Funds to Clear Mortgage on Present Quarters Damaged By Fire.

ASKS MORE HELP

Mayor In Columbus To Seek Additional WPA Workers.

In an effort to obtain additional WPA workers to finish several projects not completed in the city, Mayor William J. Locke went to Columbus today to confer with James L. Kelley, manager of the Sixth Ohio WPA district.

Demands of WPA labor by private industries have depleted the rolls until only about 25 or 30 men are working on city street projects. Two months ago, approximately 80 were employed on the Lexington avenue waterline project.

Miss Dorothy Arnold, WPA referral agent, said today that there were 406 persons employed on WPA projects in the county and that less than 90 men and women were awaiting assignment.

F. D. R. ORDERS FLEET TO TAKE WAR SUPPLIES

President Reported Ready To Requisition Refugee Vessels in Port.

spective of all-out aid to the democracies.

Vessels of all types must be taken from existing or proposed trade routes, the president declared, to haul vitally needed defense and war supplies across the high seas, and the United States merchant marine must be expanded with increased speed "so that ships and more ships will be available to carry food and munitions of war to the democracies of the world."

Admiral Land summed up the job this way—President Roosevelt "wanted everything expedited like hell."

H. Harris Robson, formerly vice president of the American Fruit company, was immediately placed in charge of the tonnage-finding task, and indications were that the marine commission expected to round up the necessary shipping in three ways:

1. By diverting some of the 7,000,000 tons of ocean-going vessels now comprising the merchant marine; by transferring some of the 2,500,000 tons of great lakes shipping to inter-costal trade, thus releasing inter-coastal vessels for the "bridge to Britain," and by commissioning army and navy auxiliaries, laid-up World war ships, lake and coastal route vessels.

2. By placing the one-ship-a-week now being built into immediate commission.

3. By acquiring some of the approximately 100 foreign-flag ships now in U. S. ports by spending legislation empowering the president to take them over for the "common good," by purchase, requisition or charter.

No official announcement has been made of the manner in which the Axis vessels may be taken over, however, and as a matter of policy they might be purchased or requisitioned under the terms of the bill now before congress.

CITY MAPS NEW PAY SCHEDULE

Council Committee Approves Wage Boosts For Workers In 3 Departments.

still being studied and that a few changes might be made before Tuesday's meeting. Serving on the salary committee with Emmons are Councilmen George L. Kyle and George L. Berg. C. N. Shultz has been acting as secretary of the committee.

Included on the proposed schedule increase in the street department will be seven truck helpers, from an average of $97 monthly to $105 per month with one week vacation; a painter, 55 cents per hour to 60 cents per hour; a mason, 70 cents per hous to 75 cents per hour; two Class A laborers in the repair department, from 55 cents per hour to 60 cents per hour.

Emmons also announced that the number of regular truck drivers will be cut from eight to seven.

Five men will benefit in the waterworks department including maintenance foreman, from $145 to $150 per month; two assistant foremen, from 55 cents per hour to 60 cents per hour; water meter reader, from $145 to $150 per month, and bookkeeper, from $130 to $140 per month. No provision was made for an increase for Joseph V. Ziegler, secretary of the garbage department because he is expected to be drafted for selective service in the near future, Emmons said.

Increases to be granted in the sewage disposal plant department will include superintendent, $2,600 to $2,750 annually; chief operator, an increase of $12.50 monthly, and three operators $125 to $140 monthly.

The three operators in the sewage disposal system received the largest increase. Emmons said that the men had been promised gradual increases of $5 per year up to $150, but because no finances were available for the last two years that no increase had been given.

AUTO INDUSTRY SHIFTS GEARS FOR DEFENSE

Army Truck Production at Chrysler Corporation Hits 250 Daily.

DETROIT — (U.P.) — Automobile talk . . . Chrysler corporation is turning out army trucks at the rate of 250 a day. . . . Last year it produced nearly 20,000 and at present 25,000 trucks are on order.

Ford dealers soon will be supplied with a new six-cylinder engine which will be interchangeable with motors in all Ford lines. . . . It will be Ford's first six since his Model K of 1907.

Buick has made an executive shakeup to fill positions in its setup for airplane engine production. . . . Heading the project are D. E. Williams as operating manager, and J. G. Hammond as general manufacturing manager. Forty others are affected.

Die shops will have plenty of time to handle styling changes in 1942 models despite the crush of defense work in the automotive industry. . . . Large die shops have not yet received many defense contracts and currently are at seasonal slack. . . . With tool shops it's different—they are overwhelmed with orders.

Payrolls in the auto industry were second highest in history last year, totalling $800,800,000, the publication Automotive Industries estimates. . . . In 1929 auto workers were paid $814,000,000.

Nearly all auto companies have announced that production in the final quarter of 1940 was highest in history. . . . For some, 1940 was the best year. . . . All are aiming to make 1941 aven a bigger one, but Steel Magazine predicts production will be about 18 per cent lower.

The auto industry's help for the aircraft industry is shaping up much faster than has been hoped. . . . Ford, Chrysler and General Motors have accepted tentatively the job of making parts for 12,000 bombers. . . . Chrysler is ready to install machinery for the parts production in the old Graham plant, while Ford has promised its entire River Rouge plant—largest industrial unit in the world—for defense jobs if needed. . . . Chrysler will employ about 1,000 on the job.

One point in the defense scene that is making some of the concerns irritated is the demand for more speed, directed at all industries in general. All current contracts are on or ahead of schedule.

Naval enlisted men are filling new barracks at the Ford plant in Detroit and already have embarked upon a program of machinists' training.

PRESENT SKIT

Playlet To Be Given At Senior High School Friday.

An original comic-skit written by Maxine Bush and Gretchen Edwards, will be presented at the Mansfield Senior high school assembly Friday as a part of the program prepared by the Girls' Athletic association.

G. A. A. songs and a final tableaux of sport activities will complete the program in which approximately 65 girls will participate.

Doris Dent will give a short history of the G. A. A. during the program. Wilma Snider is advisor to the group.

KNOCK OUT PHONES

UNIONTOWN, Pa.—(U.P.)—Telephone subscribers in this area are threatening to do something about the "poor marksmanship" of district hunters. The phone system has been disrupted at least five times when hunters punctured wires instead of game.

DOUBLE RICH MILK
...the water is evaporated

● Wilson's Evaporated Milk has a rich consistency because it is concentrated. Half of the water naturally in whole milk is evaporated. And that is all—nothing is added. Nourishing milk solids and minerals are retained. Then the Vitamin D content is increased over plain milk by irradiation with "sunshine" (ultra-violet) rays. Another good quality: Wilson's Milk is homogenized. Whenever you use milk—use Wilson's—and save money. Ask your grocer.

AIRLINE STEWARDESS FLIES MORE THAN 2,000,000 MILES

NEW YORK—(INS)—Down from the sky to enroll in the defense program, Miss Clara Johnson of San Francisco is resigning from United Air Lines after ten years as a stewardess during which time she flew more than 2,000,000 miles, a record unequalled by any woman in the world.

Petite, auburn-haired and genial, Miss Johnson retired from her career as a stewardess to join the medical staff of the Lockheed Aircraft Corporation at Burbank, California, where planes for defense are under construction.

Thirteenth stewardess in the United States, Miss Johnson has seen her profession blossom into a thriving field, with 500 girls flying the airways. She has seen air transportation develop from an infant prodigy to a lusty giant. She has witnessed the whole development of passenger service from the days of box lunches and straight back chairs to full-course meals and luxury day and sleeper planes. She has watched hundreds of stewardesses fold up their uniforms and turn in their wings to answer the seeming destiny of all stewardesses, marriage.

"I really don't know how many proposals of marriage I've had," she replied to a rather impudent question. "All of us get them every now and then and I suppose men consider there is something 'romantic' about this flying game.

Although she has always preferred men passengers, particularly business men, because they are not fussy and are always grateful, her top-flight favorite passenger has been Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt on a number of trips.

"She's so interested in everything," Miss Johnson, who has highly developed the same characteristic. "Many people ask us to point out scenery and points of interest, but they are just making conversation, Mrs. Roosevelt really wants to know, and you have the feeling that the information you give is stowed away in her mind, and that some day it will be called forth again for the edification or amusement of someone else."

On the ground again after a decade of regular flying, Miss Johnson has memories of her oldest passenger—a man 94, celebrating his birthday by flying between Sacramento and Redding, California, over the route he once covered as a stage coach driver, and her youngest passenger—a three-day-old baby being rushed to a San Francisco hospital for an operation to correct a cleft palate. Has she any advice to new stewardesses? Well, says Miss Johnson, when a flirt tries to monopolize the conversation of a stewardess, a stewardess is wise to adopt the direct, or hit him first, technique. Talk about the boy friend who is going to be waiting at the next airport. It always works.

John Simpson Pupils Modeling Clothing Made In Classroom

Pupils at John Simpson Junior high school yesterday saw the latest in fashions modeled by members of the ninth grade home economics class during a morning assembly period. The clothes, all made and modeled by pupils, demonstrated the proper apparel for morning, sport and afternoon wear. Approximately 675 pupils saw the show, and boys and girls alike enjoyed the exhibit. Shown above are pupils who took part in wearing the costumes which they made. At top right, Joan Linkhart and Lavera McEowen, modedling playtime apparel; center, Helen Buchan and Peggy Sears in afternoon frocks; left, sports wear modeled by Mary Alice Spring and Betsy Champion; and at the bottom are Joan Linkhart, Ann Millenbruck and Helen Buchan in house coats and pyjamas for morning wear. Directed by Edna Tucker, home economics instructor, 11 pupils took part in the show.

SON RECEIVES FATHER'S KIT

PETERSBURG, Ind. — (U.P.) — World war memories were revived for Lane Lang, a gardener, when his son, Lane Lang, jr., wrote that he had been issued a mess kit carved with his father's name and a skull and crossbones at the Phoenix, Ariz., CCC camp.

Lang recalled that he had inscribed the mess kit with his name and the design while in the Argonne forest in France. When mustered out of the army Lang checked in his equipment at Newport News, Va. In some mysterious way the CCC, which issues old army equipment, placed the kit in his son's hands.

SPECIAL SHOES FOR 'CHUTISTS

AKRON, O.—(U.P.)—Other than the silk which goes into the parachute itself, rubber products made here probably are the most important equipment used by the new parachute troops of the army.

Foam latex is used to form resilient seat and back cushions on the parachute.

Specially constructed shoes — with foam latex two inches thick for soles — absorb much of the shock of landing. To prevent undue strain on the silk when the chute snaps open, a rubber ring is inserted in the center of the canopy itself.

Preaching and Barbering Don't Mix, Pastor Finds

BARNEVELD, N. Y. —(INS)— The Rev. Elmer O. Webster, pastor of the local First Methodist Church, has put away his comb and two pairs of barber shears until some time when he isn't so busy.

Mr. Webster reopened the community's only barber shop a short time ago and operated it for five days in place of Harold Howlett, who went to work in the Savage Arms plant at Utica.

Saturday morning was not very busy, Mr. Webster said, so he managed to complete two sermons for the next day's services.

But on Saturday afternoon he had six haircuts and two shaves, and he went home too tired to put his best into preaching the next day. He decided therefore, to give up the barber business for the present and stick to preaching.

Back on the Job with Bills All Paid

. . . how to feel like a million on a hundred or so

A YOUNG MACHINIST had just returned to full time work when suddenly he was bombarded with bills demanding payment of past due accounts. He sized up the situation, took out a loan, and paid up everything. He earned discounts for full settlement and had money left over to buy new clothes for himself and family.

Now, less than one-tenth of his income is paying off his loan without a bitch.

"Better see me for cash rather than jeopardize your job."

MIAMI AIRPORT FOR AMERICAS OPENS IN JULY

Western Hemisphere To Be Served By 880-Acre Air Terminal.

MIAMI, Fla.—(U.P.)—A great new air field linking the Americas will be opened to traffic July 1, with the completion of its mile-long runways and landing field facilities.

The new Miami International Air Terminal, an 880-acre field, will provide facilities for handling air mail, freight and express shipments and passenger service that are exceeded only by New York's LaGuardia field.

Three thousand workmen have been engaged since October, 1939, in clearing the field and building the runways. When completed, it will have a main terminal building, three hangars and accessory buildings, as well as a complete sanitary and sewage system and a fire protection water supply.

A temporary terminal building will be ready in July to clear air passengers and freight when the runways are ready, and the permanent structure is expected to be ready before the close of the year.

During the last six months of 1940, 1,152 planes entered or cleared Miami to and from the Caribbean islands, Central and South America, carrying 45,814 passengers, 243,428 pounds of mail and 291,540 pounds of express, valued at more than $5,500,000. Domestic airlines, which connect with this international traffic, carried 20,421 passengers, 581,817 pounds of mail, and 104,299 pounds of express during this same period.

Much of the service to the West Indies, Central and South American points still is by seaplane, but stratoliners and land planes are expected eventually to replace them, concentrating all commercial air travel here at the one great airport.

The home base of Pan American Airways' fleet of new stratoclippers, which now use the adjoining old Municipal airport, will be at the new field. These great four-engined planes carry 30 passengers and weigh 70 tons, fully loaded. They have a cruising range of 6,000 miles. The tail—or vertical fin—on one of these planes towers as high as a five-story building.

Eastern Air Lines will move its Miami operations from 36th Street Airport to the new field and applications for accommodations also have been received from American Export Airlines, which plans a trans-Atlantic service, and Seaboard Airlines, which proposes a Baltimore-Miami service.

The War department appreciated the importance of Miami International Airport," Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson wrote recently, "as a major air line terminal, as a potential base for land aircraft in support of naval operations, and as a base for extending air operations toward the Panama Canal and South America."

DATA UNCOVERED

NEW ORLEANS—(INS)—Historians poking around old files have brought to light new data on one of the most amazing phenomena of early America—the great Red River log jam.

The Red River raft was a natural wonder of the Indian country two centuries ago. Composed of millions of logs and thousands of tons of driftwood and debris, which formed a jam in the stream, it rendered the river unnavigable for more than 65 miles, present historians say.

Seventy-five community trusts administered charitable funds in the United States during 1939, aggregating $50,000,000.

REPORT SHOWS BANK LOANS AT NEW HIGH LEVEL

Commercial, Other Credits Reach Total For Year of $84,000,000.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND — Increased demand for defense financing has reversed the bank loan trend evident in recent years, the fourth federal district reported today in its monthly business review.

Loans are up $84,000,000, or 11 per cent, so far this year in the fourth district, embracing all Ohio, Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Kentucky and the West Virginia panhandle.

While there was no indication of the share defense loans represented in this increase, they contributed importantly. Reports from 41 banks in 10 cities showed commercial, industrial and agricultural loans together reached the highest level in nearly a decade, up 38 per cent this year compared with the first four months of 1940.

"The increase in loans which began last fall has continued almost uninterruptedly, and has been sufficient to reverse the trend evident in recent years, so far as the ratio of loans to total earning assets of banks is concerned," the review said.

"On the latest date, total loans represented more than 40 per cent of earning assets at weekly reporting member banks in this district, whereas a year ago at this time loans represented 36 per cent of total loans and investments."

Bank debits—the flow of money as recorded in checking account transactions—increased 30.4 per cent in 26 representative cities for the four-weeks ended April 16, compared with the same period last year. Debits for the year to date were up 24.9 per cent over the corresponding period of 1940.

Paralleling the rise in money circulation to new high levels, the volume of federal reserve notes issued in the fourth district reached a new peak in the second week of April. Compared with a year ago, note circulation is up $123,000,000—more than 27 per cent.

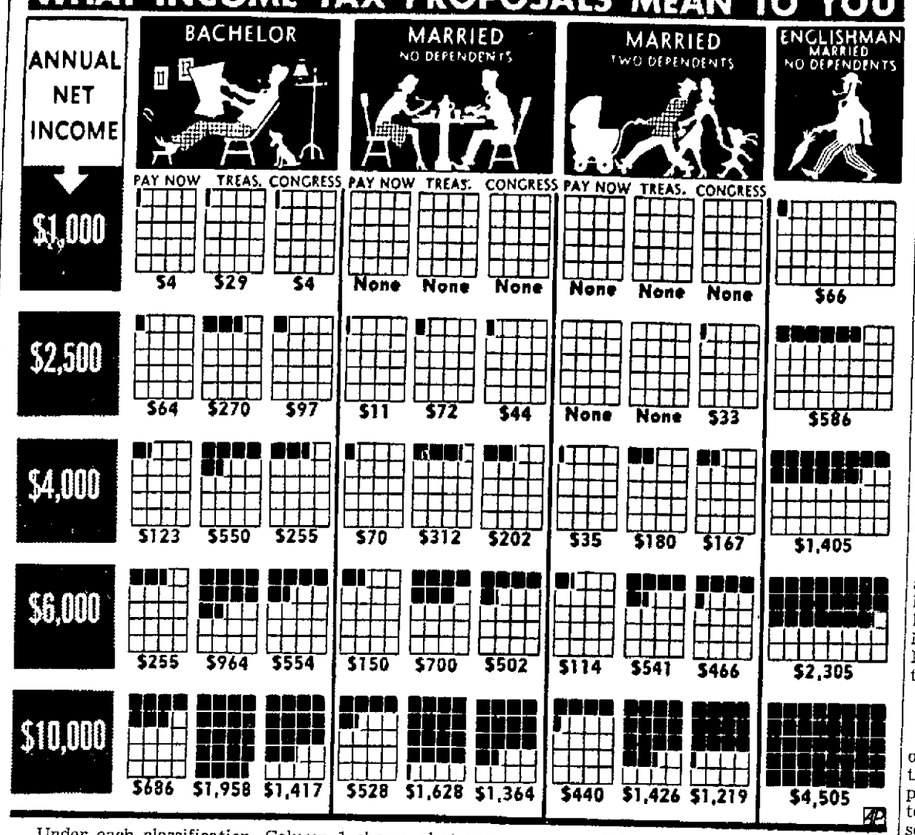
The district industrial picture showed crude rubber consumption reached an all-time high during March as domestic manufacturers used 66,821 gross tons. Approximately 20,000 tons of crude rubber were added to inventories in the United States during the same month, bringing total stocks to 371,581 tons on April 1—the most since May, 1933.

Ohio employment advanced three points in March to 111 per cent of the 1926 average. This compared with 94 per cent a year ago. Construction continued its sharp rise, due chiefly to residential building.

PITCHERS IN BRITAIN.

LONDON — (U.P.) — Horseshoe pitching, a sandlot favorite in many parts of Canada and the United States, may become established over here through its popularity with Canadian troops and Americans in the Canadian army. Dozens of horseshoe sets have been sent over by the Canadian Y. M. C. A. to be distributed among soldiers.

WHAT INCOME TAX PROPOSALS MEAN TO YOU



Under each classification, Column 1 shows what you pay now; Column 2, what you would pay under the treasury's proposal, and Column 3, what you would pay under a proposal of the staff of the joint congressional committee on taxation. The Englishman's income tax is not strictly comparable with the American's. The Englishman pays fewer other taxes, though his rates generally are higher. He pays a purchase tax of about 24 per cent of the retail price on luxury items and about 12 per cent of the retail price on standard commodities. Each square represents about $100.

Blind Men and Women Aid U. S. Defense Program

OAKLAND, Cal. —(INS)— Proud of their ability to contribute to the nation's welfare, more than 100 blind men and women are at work on national defense orders at the State Industrial Home for the Blind.

The home has orders on hand for $35,000 worth of defense needs—102,000 pillow cases and 6,000 pairs of trousers for the army and 18,000 brooms for Mare Island navy yard.

The new factories were inaugurated despite predictions by skeptics that the blind were not capable of handling the work and that the home would not be able to compete with factories where sighted men are employed.

But not only were the blind able to produce the first order on time but the garments were declared 100 per cent perfect by the army after rigid inspections—a record rarely equalled by any factory anywhere. Furthermore, they already are well ahead of schedule and expect to complete a six-month contract six weeks ahead of time.

THEATERS

Boy's Town Problems.

Woven around Father Flanagan's increasing financial problems as he seeks to care for the hundreds of boys who appeal to him for aid, "Men of Boy's Town," held over at the Ohio through Friday, gives Spencer Tracy and Mickey Rooney the same character parts that they played in "Boy's Town." Suspense is injected into the picture when Mickey becomes involved in the crime of a boy he tries to help. Darryl Hickman as a kid bandit is one of the younger players in the film.

High School Days.

The role of Henry Aldrich was tailor-made for Jackie Cooper. In "Life With Henry," showing at the Madison, Jackie plays the typical high school lad whose faculty for getting in and out of trouble amounts to almost supernatural. He is aided in his well-meant misadventures by his pal "Dizzy," played by Eddie Bracken, a newcomer. Another newcomer is Leila Ernst, Jackie's leading lady. Hedda Hopper and Fred Niblo, sr., play the parents. "Dead Men Tell," Charlie Chan's picture is the co-attraction.

War of Nerves.

A family's war of nerves brought on by a stuffy lawyer father motivates the plot of 'Father's Son," playing at the Ritz with John Litel, Frieda Inescort and Billy Dawson in the leading roles. Billy engineers various ways of clearing the situation at home and a kidnaping is not the least of them. Sylvia Sidney in "Street Scene," is the second film.

Air Robbery.

"The Great Plane Robbery," Jack Holt's starring vehicle at the Park depicts action aboard a transcontinental liner when gangsters take over. Holt, in the role of a private detective, is assigned to keeping a killer alive during the trip that ends in a secluded field near a hunting lodge. Joe Colson plays the prisoner and the cast includes Vicki Lester, Theodore Von Eltz and Stanley Fields. Roy Rogers in "Young Bill Hickok" is the second feature.

Hugh Herbert Comedy.

Hugh Herbert, the screen's "Woo Woo" comedian, is starred in "Meet the Chump," opening at the Majestic Friday. Playing the part of a wacky guardian of a ten-million dollar estate that will be turned over to a nephew Herbert becomes involved in a series of complications leading up to the disappearance of half the amount. Hobart Cavanaugh and Ed Gargan are in the cast. "Billy The Kid's Fighting Pals," the co-attraction shows "Billy" deserting lawlessness to use his guns for the government.

SUBURBS ALOOF

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — (U.P.) — Birmingham's dreams of expansion, without state legislation, appears at a standstill. Of eight suburban municipalities invited to enter the limits of the larger city, seven have offered polite refusals.

FAWN KNOWS KITCHEN.

NEWBERRY, Mich.—(U.P.)—Mrs. Blaine Brannon, wife of the manager of the Cusino state game area, doesn't mind when her pet fawn comes traipsing into her kitchen to plead for a stray carrot—but she never allows the animal in her living room because it eats all her potted plants.

DUKE OF WINDSOR'S FAVORITE DANCERS
With Madison Stage Show Next Wed. and Thur.!

The recent visit of the Duke of Windsor to the U. S. brings out the fact that the Perry Twins, his favorite dance team, are now touring the states and will soon be seen here with the stage unit "Red Hot and Lovely"—the boys took the opportunity to phone his highness and express their sympathy regarding the illness of the Duchess. The Perry Twins look alike, act alike and dance alike and received recognition by being called for a command appearance before the Duke while he was reigning as King. The Perry Twins are just one of the outstanding features with "Red Hot and Lovely." Other stars in the cast are the Three Ross Sisters the last word in acrobatics, Star and Lee, recording artists, Nixon and Sans, comedians the Cheret Sisters and Petite Arnette, and the Twelve Glorious Ziegfeld Girls and will be the stage attraction at the Madison Wednesday and Thursday.

REPORTS CCC HELPS TRAIN U. S. LEADERS

Director Tells of Junior Officers Schools Set Up Over Country.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The Civilian Conservation Corps has been a great factor in the development of leadership among the youth of America, according to a recent report by CCC Director James J. McEntee, which revealed that thousands of former enrollees are now serving as camp commanders, and in other responsible positions.

The report, based on a survey conducted among the personnel of the 1,500 CCC camps now in operation, disclosed that special junior officers' schools have been established in all parts of the country to train youths to be competent CCC officers.

This training has become necessary because of the many vacancies created by CCC officers who have left the Civilian Conservation Corps to undertake duties as officers in Uncle Sam's armed forces.

"Although a considerable number of reserve officers assigned to CCC camps have entered the army, all vacancies have been filled promptly either by the appointment of reserve officers not called to active duty, the appointment of technical or educational CCC staff personnel as junior officers or by the promotion of qualified enrollees," Mr. McEntee said.

About 649 enrollees are now in training for junior officers positions and 599 of them are receiving this training in organized schools with the remaining in CCC camps. In order to qualify for enrollment in these schools the applicant must have the following requirements:

1. Recommendation of district and company commanders; 2. be physically fit; 3. have a high school education or its equivalent; 4. have an excellent record as an enrollee; 5: have a good moral character.

GIVE COMEDY

Madison Seniors Give Play, 'Tish' Friday Night.

The Senior class at Madison township high school presents Mary Roberts Rinehart's comedy "Tish," in the school auditorium Friday at 8 p. m.

The play, directed by Lenore Mills, has a cast of 14 pupils.

The play is built about the adventures of Tish, an old maid, and her two boon companions, in a remote section of the southwest. Tish has determined to lead the "simpler life," but she finds, in a series of hilarious moments, that "the simpler life" eludes even her best efforts.

U. S. GRADUATES ARMY COOKS

NORFOLK, Va.—(U.P.)—Forty-eight "knights of the kettle" have been graduated from the training school for army cooks at nearby Langley Field after a two-months course that covered everything from setting up a field kitchen in a driving rainstorm to figuring a close kitchen budget.

Among other things, the student cooks were taught the art of feeding soldiers on as little as 41 cents a day. Most of the first "graduates" — now designated mess sergeants, first cooks or second cooks—soon will be on their way to stations in Puerto Rico or other air bases.

Lexington Seniors To Present 'One Mad Night.'

There are 14 members in the cast and the high school band will give a musical program during the evening.

Bill Northern Wins Laurels for Southern Drawl

RANDOLPH FIELD—(INS)—He's a Nashville, Tenn., boy, only 21, but he's getting along.

He's a Flying Cadet, one of nearly 900, receiving basic flight training at Randolph Field, Texas, the nation's giant "West Point of the Air."

This pilot-to-be, former trackman and wrestler for Vanderbilt university, has gained a "championship" which possibly should have gone to Bill Southern, his Cadet chum from Ellinwood, Kans.

The title is for having the most southern drawl at the training school.

However, Southern did not have a chance winning out in southern talk when up to the microphone stepped this lad in question, of all persons, Bill Northern.

Hits Treasury Plan to Raise New Taxes

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Broadway Futurama.

(You know how Broadway column go 'now, but what do know about the Broadway column of the future—say 1966? We'll bet money it won't be much different from the columns you read now. We'll bet it will go something like this.)

* * *

HOT rumors persist that Madison Square Garden will revert to its former policy of sponsoring athletic events. . . . Spencer Tracy is still trying to get a leave of absence from Hollywood to do a Broadway play.

Dorothy Kilgallen

Joe DiMaggio, jr., will try out for a position with the Yanks—in the hope that his dad, who bought the Yankees from Jim Farley a few years back, will give him a break. . . . Deanna Durbin is Hollywood's prettiest grandmother.

The revival of "Charley's Aunt" looks like a sure-fire hit. . . . Salvador Dali has just completed his greatest painting. The subject: melting telephones, with a man resembling Don Ameche tearing his hair.

Jimmy Stewart will get his honorable discharge from the army next week.

Parents are petitioning toy manufacturers to make their trains a little less genuine. Eight Bronx children are missing and the theory persists that they are en route to Chicago in their toy trains.

The latest cafe society romance has the smart set agog. Seems the well-known couple met through a televised wrong-number phone call. . . . Hollywood will serialize the life story of Victor Mature. In this order, the films will be titled, "Pre-Mature," "Mature at Last," and "Mature. the Tired Old Man." . . . What's this about smoking cars in the subway?

Ethel Merman is arriving at her stage door these nights via autogiro. . . . A book of Milton Berle's gags will shortly be released. It's entitled "Under the Spreading Chestnut Tree." . . . Robert Moses has been called in to beautify Broadway.

A Stanford freshman was clocked doing the 100-yard dash in 8.2 seconds, which betters the world's record by .2 of a second.

The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce announces it is willing to sign an armistice with the Florida ditto, calling the war between the states needless. Diplomats predict they'll have the boys out of the trenches before the rainy season sets in.

Fred Allen, jr., and Jack Livermore Benny, II, aren't talking. Seems Fred made some crack about the way little Johnny plays the violin.

Artie Shaw will organize his 27th orchestra. This time it'll only have one piece—a clarinet. . . . The life story of Moss Hart will become a screen vehicle as gleaned from the Medical Journal. . . . Don't forget to turn your clock ahead three hours on Sunday.

The Miami-Havana aqueduct will be completed early in September and the president will take the first drive across it.

Hildegarde will sing at next week's White House reception. A new ditty called "The Last Time I Saw Ickes."

The press photographers finally doped out a new pose for a visiting film star arriving at Grand Central. Instead of taking a picture of Mickey Rooney waving at the camera, they shot a side view with him holding his hat in front of his face (a la hiding criminal) and it made all the papers.

A scientifically treated stocking will be placed on the market next month. It won't tear, rip or run. But it may melt a little. . . . Billy Rose's latest venture will be an East Side hamburger haven employing name talent and a swing band. Rose will get $2.50 per sandwich. . . . Washington flash reports that 1967 income taxes will be lowered to 45 per cent.

George Bernard Shaw, in reply to a newspaper account which said he was "failing fast," indignantly retorted: "I'm quick at everything." . . . Coney Islanders are complaining that the place is getting to look like Broadway.

Biographers Luther Davis and John Cleveland start soon on their piece "The Life and Loves of Shirley Temple," an up to date biog of the glamorous movie star.

PASSAGE OF OHIO BUDGET BILL ASSURED

Agreement of G. O. P. Majority Also Indicates Senate O. K. on Benefits, Mines Plans.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — An agreement by the 19-member Republican majority of the Ohio senate today assured passage of the $352,345,099 biennial appropriation bill and two other major measures in the upper chamber.

The appropriation bill, carrying $477,700 more for operation of the state government in 1941-42 than the amount fixed by the house, was up for a vote in the senate today.

The two other principal pieces of legislation are:

Liberalization of unemployment insurance benefits, scheduled for a vote tomorrow, and

The coal mine safety and inspection bill, to be acted on Monday night.

Meanwhile, Frank E. Whittemore, Republican floor leader in the senate, asserted he believed the legislature could do a "cleaner, neater job" by continuing its working sessions until May 14. Developments early next week, however, will determine the senate's attitude on the house's desire to quit work May 8.

Th Republican senators, in caucus last night, decided to let a senate-house conference committee adjust differences over a $1,000,000 increase for university building improvements in the appropriation measure.

Wittemore expressed belief, though, that most of the $1,000,000—if not all—would be deleted and the amount restored to such necessities as poor relief. mine inspection, minimum wage inspectors and Bang's disease eradication.

Gov. John W. Bricker has served notice that all the universities' building funds would be vetoed if the extra allocation was not withdrawn.

The unemployment insurance bill, unanimously recommended for passage by the senate commerce and labor committee, is estimated to increase workers' benefit $7,000,000 a year while reducing by $9,000,000 to $11,000,000 annually the payroll taxes which employers are required to pay into the insurance fund.

The taxes, now 1 to 4 per cent, would be cut ¾ to 3 per cent; a benefit minimum of $5 a week would be established and the maximum hiked from $15 to $16; the waiting period of applicants for benefits would be reduced from three weeks to two.

Up and Down the Street

The lack of rain and heavy damage to gravel and earth roads during the past winter have combined to create a dust nuisance in the county rural areas much earlier than usual. County commissioners and the engineer's office already are being swamped with calls for oil to control the dust on roads in front of rural homes. Commissioners said there is no oil available yet, so they are hoping for a heavy shower to remedy the situation.

* * *

City council already holding four sessions in April almost made it five last night. Councilman Fred Miller moved for adjournment after a $25,000 bond issue had been authorized and the table announced cleared. His motion was seconded and approved. Council then found it had neglected to pass a final resolution on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad grade elimination project and faced the possibility of a fifth special meeting. Miller, however, withdrew his motion for adjournment and the final resolution was passed.

CALLS METHOD SEVERE AND UNREALISTIC

U. S. Chamber Official Says Revenue and Non-Defense Expense Should Be Cut.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — A proposal for a moratorium on strikes in defense industries through the joint efforts of "patriotic labor and industrial leaders" was placed before the United States Chamber of Commerce today by its resolutions committee.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The way in which the treasury proposes to raise $3,500,000,000 in new taxes was termed "severe and unrealistic" today by a U. S. Chamber of Commerce fiscal official who called instead for a $2,500,000,000 increase in revenue and a $2,000,000,000 cut in non-defense expenditures.

In a speech prepared for the opening session of the chamber's final convention day, Ellsworth C. Alvord, chairman of the finance committee, also said that it was better to guard against inflation by increasing the production of non-defense goods, rather than by taxing consumer purchasing power, as the administration's program contemplates.

After Alvord's speech, the Chamber was scheduled to lay down its policies for the next 12 months. The resolutions adopted were expected to reflect its fiscal views on the necessity both for reductions in non-defense expenses, and for heavy increases in federal income.

There also was speculation among delegates that the Chamber, in its statement on labor, would call for a moratorium on strikes in defense industries by voluntary cooperation between management and labor, but would go on record against any anti-strike legislation.

Alvord, a Washington attorney, compared taxes raised this year with those demanded which he said represent "an increase of 80 per cent in income taxes, 100 per cent in estate and gift taxes and 60 per cent in excise taxes."

"The rates proposed by the treasury would raise havoc with those persons with definite and fixed commitments, which includes everyone in the $2,000 to $20,000 income field.

"Furthermore, what happens to this group if the cost of living increases 50 per cent within the next two years? They will be squeezed most seriously — fixed incomes; tripled tax liabilities; increased living costs."

BOARD 'WAITS' ON ROAD JOB

Commissioners Delay Action on Road, Pending Move By War Department.

Richland county Commissioners decided on a "waiting game" today with the U. S. war department over the construction and acceptance of the Newville-Pleasant Hill road in southeastern Richland county.

With only two property owners appearing yesterday for a hearing on establishment of the road, commissioners continued the hearing for another 30 days. They expect the war department, which agreed to build the road, to put it in condition for traffic by that time.

Commissioners said the section of new highway, about two and a half miles long, was started several months ago by the war department which took over the Muskingum Conservancy district. Work was halted late in the winter, however, and nothing has been done since then toward completion of the project, commissioners said.

The county agreed to accept the road and maintain it after it is completed, but commissioners said they have no intention of taking it into the county system until it is ready for use. The new road will replace a route which will be abandoned because of flood waters back of the Pleasant Hill dam.

Meanwhile, about eight rural families in the Pleasant Hill reservoir area are threatened with isolation unless action is taken soon to open the new highway. There are six families on the new section of highway and two on the old road who must use the old route for an outlet. The county already has taken steps to dismantle bridges on the old highway which will mean closing of the route to traffic. The bridges will be sold to the highest bidder and the money turned into the county highway fund.

RED CROSS FIRST AID IN U. S. DEFENSE PROGRAM EXPLAINED

Nation-wide efforts to organize Red Cross volunteer first aid detachments in cooperation with industries, office buildings, department stores, colleges and hotels as a phase in national defense were explained to Mansfield first aid instructors at a meeting Wednesday night in the executive office of Richland county chapter of the Red Cross.

Bernard C. Hardy, first aid and safety director for the Richland chapter, advised the group that authorization for such detachments had been given by Washington headquarters through Chairman Norman H. Davis in a letter of instruction to 3,700 chapters of the Red Cross.

"The purpose of Red Cross volunteer first aid detachments," Hardy said, "is to make available and effective in emergencies the services of persons trained in first aid and supplementary emergency procedures."

"Through a detachment enrollment," he continued, "these trained persons will be known and identified and will be a part of a planned orgaization prepared to function under adequate leadership. It is expected that they shall be immediately available and close at hand to give assistance among those with whom they work or where they are located."

According to the safety director these detachments would act in disasters brought on by fires, explosions or other destructive forces.

Their primary responsibility would be to the plant with which they are connected and they would not be expected to serve elsewhere unless the situation demanded it.

Meeting with the instructors last night were several board members including Milo Hieber, county chairman; R. L. Iden, chairman of first aid; Allen Bond, treasurer, and Mrs. Gertrude English, secretary.

BABY 'RING'

Prosecutor Charges Children of Unwed Parents Sold.

DETROIT — (INS) — Startling revelations in connection with a two year probe into the alleged buying and selling of babies born to unwed mothers were promised by the Wayne county prosecutor's office today.

Meanwhile, Assistant Prosecutor John Potter said that Mrs. Agnes Yarrow, 47-year-old grandmother, had been taken into custody for questioning and on suspicion of a tentative charge of conspiracy to violate the state adoption laws. She was denied a writ of habeas corpus and held under $2,000 bond.

Potter and Assistant Prosecutor John Gilmore told Recorder's Court Judge George Murphy, before whom Mrs. Yarrow was taken, that they had information to the effect that childless couples have paid as high as $1,000 for babies originally contracted for before their birth and for sums as low as $50 plus the mother's hospital expenses.

Consider Plan to Expand Sandusky Munitions Plant

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—War department officials are considering a proposal to expand the army's new TNT plant at Sandusky, by 25 per cent, it was learned today. The proposed plan is in connection with a program to increase munition production facilities.

The ordnance department has decided on details as to exact size, costs, land and other maters that are regarded as confidential until a decision is reached.

It is believed, however, that the proposed plan includes an additional building and an extra production line to the existing facilities. The original estimated construction cost of the Sandusky plant was $6,850,000 exclusive of equipment.

The war department holds options on approximately 7,100 acres of land. Latest information disclosed that it had acquired on about 2,500 acres. Some officials doubted that additional land would be needed if the expansion is approved.

The Sandusky proposal is being studied on the basis of it being a "feeder" to the Ravenna shell loading plant.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—That gentle zephyr blowing out of the west these days is naught but a huge, collective, feminine sigh. Jean Gabin, the leading movie actor of France, is in town.

Gabin, as you will know if you have seen "Pepe le Moko" or other of his French films, is no sleek, hand-kissing Latin. He is ruggedly handsome, in the Spencer Tracy-James Cagney style: strong chin, prominent nose, brown, graying hair waving back from a high strong forehead, keen blue eyes with a Gallic twinkle when he smiles.

ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood got him not without a struggle. Gabin, long unheeding Hollywood's blandishments, was in the French navy on a minesweeper while France was in the war. He was on leave at his new home in Dreux, some 75 miles west of Paris, when the Nazis broke through at Sedan.

The word came they would be upon him in 15 minutes, so he packed an extra shirt, leaped into his car and headed west toward Cherbourg to rejoin his unit. The Nazis beat him there. He swung toward Brest, found the enemy ahead of him, dodged south to Toulon. There, with Paris taken, he was demobilized. He was in Marseilles, bunking with friends and with only a spare shirt to his name, when Hollywood offered the way out. Andre Daven, French producer at 20th Century-Fox, brought him here and he will make a picture as soon, he says, as he can learn "not only to speak but to think in English."

At present, taking daily language lessons, going to movies, he has mastered quite a few American expressions. These he uses with small accent, fills in with eloquent gestures, but is still most at home in French with Daven or Margot Fragey, the producer's secretary, as interpreter.

Through his slight English, his gestures, and the aid of Miss Fragey (after throwing my school French out the window), I learned that Gabin, who will be 37 next month, was no stranger to German invasion. As a boy of 10, in 1914, he and his family fled their home in Creil.

His father, an actor, wanted him to become a comedian but Jean ran away in protest. He worked at manual labor before, a wiser lad, he came back to the stage. About 12 years ago he made his first movie, has cared little for the theater since.

HAM SANDWICH LUCKY ORDER

Man 65 Orders Food, Finds Waitress Long-Lost Daughter.

BROWNWOOD, Tex.—(UP)—Lon Parker, 65, had looked long for his three children, without success. Then he ordered a ham sandwich and his search was ended.

He was so happy he had to shout. So he ran out into the street and let go. A policeman stopped him and wanted to know what all the fuss was about. When Parker told him, the officer said he guessed the elderly man had a celebration coming.

Here's Parker's story:

He had not seen his two daughters and a son, Goldie, Opal and Ellis Parker, since 1925, when they were living with their mother. He went to the northwest, into Montana, Wyoming and Canada, and only returned here in late 1939 to look again for them.

"I came here trying to find my children," he said. "I knew they were in Abilene 15 years ago.

"The other night I went into a cafe here. It was good ham and I like ham sandwiches. So I asked the waitress to fix me a ham sandwich and use a double amount of ham.

"There weren't many customers so after she asked if the ham was all right, we started talking. I figured it wouldn't hurt any, so I asked her if by any chance she knew of my children, and I named them for her.

"'Did you say Goldie Parker? she asked.

"I told her yes and right away she looked at me closely and said, 'Why I'm Goldie Parker, and you're Lon Parker, my father, aren't you?'"

PLANS SET FOR EGG AUCTION

First Co-operative Marketing System Here Starts May 9 at Shelby Agency.

Richland county's first cooperative egg auction will be held May 9 when the new Northcentral Poultry and Egg Cooperative goes into action at Shelby, County Agent George B. Ganyard said today.

Farmers from 12 counties in this area, including Richland, will send their eggs to the Shelby market for sale to retailers from large cities in Ohio, Michigan, and eastern Pennsylvania.

When the marketing system is in full operation, it is expected that from 500 to 600 crates of eggs will be marketed weekly through the Shelby headquarters, Ganyard said.

The eggs will be graded by the producers or after they are taken to the cooperative headquarters. Trucks will operate through the 12-county area, bringing the eggs back to Shelby for sale.

Counties which will be served by the market are Richland, Crawford, Huron, Ottawa, Hardin, Wyandot, Marion, Delaware, Seneca, Sandusky, Morrow and Union.

Max Drake, manager of Louis Bromfield's Malabar farm, is secretary-treasurer of the cooperative. E. J. Bishop, New Washington hatcheryman, is president, and A. L. Everitt, Delaware, is vice president.

American Girls In Defense Work

American girls and women are joinging their fathers, husbands and brothers in preparing for emergency defense work.

Seizing the opportunity to train as ambulance and truck drivers in motor corps schools being conducted in a number of cities throughout the country, several hundred already are studying the intricacies of carburetors, valves, clutches, spark plugs and other automotive mysteries.

Consisting of a ten weeks' course, with one lesson a week, the schools are so planned that students will learn to make emergency motor repairs, learn the principles of black-out driving and how to take care of a motor. During the course students are taught to assemble a motor.

Upon completion of the course, which is sanctioned by the American Women's Voluntary Services, students who satisfactorily acquit themselves in an examination will be awarded certificates attesting that they are qualified for motor corps defense work.

Enrollment in the motor corps schools has evinced the eagerness of American girls and women to prepare themselves for the same type of service English women are rendering their country.

Summer Attire For Your Home

It won't be long now before winter draperies come down; rugs come up and the house gets itself —with a major amount of assistance from you—into summer attire.

The homemaker who achieves the transition with the least possible amount of effort is she who makes her plans several weeks in advance of the actual transformation and gets her summer drapes, spreads and slip covers ready at her leisure.

Dotted swiss is one of the most satisfactory of summer fabrics for drapes—both windows and dressing tables—and bedspreads. A particularly charming ensemble which may be found in the majority of the large department stores is available in a set consisting of window drapes, bedspread and dressing table skirt. Stick candy bindings in red, blue or mint green stripes add a gay touch.

Plaids are delightful for the living room in summer and this season there is excellent selection, for plaids and checks have never been smarter. Plaid or checked gingham will make gaily practical bedspreads, dressing table drapes and window curtains for the bedroom and be equally at home in the living room. For the latter room select the larger checks and bolder plaids.

Striped chintz is also a good choice for summer as it is cool looking and can be either cleaned or laundered with little effort. If one so desires it can be reglazed. A green and white striped chintz is indescribably cool looking and will be just as effective for slip covers as for window drapes.

Another material which deserves consideration because of its inexpensive and practical nature is sailcloth. It makes a sturdy slipcover and launders beautifully.

CHAPTER VII

"Oh, yes—money can vanish instantly," Bill Anderson told Raye cheerfully. "You lack experience, that's all. My father had a coal mine, lost it and we were on our uppers. That's why I have to make my own way now. It's not so bad. You'll find it has its good points."

"But I wouldn't know how to manage. I've—I've never been on my own. You see, I'm not fitted for—for anything."

Raye's voice trailed a little hopelessly on the last work. It was the truth—only too true. She wasn't fitted to earn her own living—and this was the first time it had ever occurred to her.

She thought of Hal. Under the circumstances, Hal would rush his divorce through. She had nothing really to worry about. How lucky it was that she had decided to marry a man who was well established both socially and financially. When she was Hal's wife, she could go on exactly as before.

And what made it perfect, she would be marrying him more for himself than anything else. Why, she loved him so much it hurt something way down deep inside whenever she thought of him!

Yet all this was confused with a doubt she couldn't shake off. She clutched her fingers tightly in her lap, every muscle in her body tense. If only she could get some definite assurance from Hal about that divorce!

"If there's anything I can do for you, Raye, I'd be glad to tackle it," Bill Anderson told her when they were walking across the front porch of her palatial 18th century Italian villa. "You can count on me any time."

"Thank you," came mechanically from Raye. "Good night."

Sumner flung back the heavy carved front door and Raye entered the impressive wide hall alone, painfully conscious that, from now on, her life would be radically different.

Aunt Susan, in cream silk boudoir robe, lay huddled on a lavender chaise longue in her lavender and gold dressing room. Her small blue-gray eyes, red-rimmed from tears, her round flushed little face, made her look like a pathetic child who had been severely chastised.

The instant Raye entered the room, Susan Stone bounced to her feet. She flung herself upon Raye in hysterical abandon. Fresh tears streamed down her plump cheeks and she clung frantically to her niece.

It was a relief for Raye to let down and weep with her a brief instant.

Then abruptly Raye drew up, saying, "Auntie, we can't go on like this! We'll have to meet the issue somehow. There must be a way out. Let me see that letter."

Her aunt brushed strands of dark hair from her blinking eyes and pointed to the letter on her dressing table.

Then she slumped into a deep armchair, looking as woebegone as any helpless refugee.

Raye snatched up the letter and quickly read it.

She dropped it to the rug, her face working convulsively.

"It's—it's ghastly!" she got out shakily. "He killed himself because for years he'd been speculating with my fortune—robbing Peter to pay Paul—getting so tangled up finally that he saw no way out. The poor, poor man!"

"Poor man, indeed! You don't seem to realize what he's done! Why, you're nearly ready to forgive him—when he's taken everything!

"It's—it's too late to do anything else, isn't it?" said Raye slowly.

Susan Stone passed this by. She wailed. "What does the future hold for me? What can a woman of my age do? Absolutely nothing! For years, you've been so—so magnanimous to me! Why, that man has taken the very food out of our mouths!"

Her sobs broke out again.

"Auntie—please calm down. The thing's done—Mawson Duke isn't around to face the music. Dramatizing the situation won't help. We'll have to make plans. You'll have to help me, auntie."

"Dear child—you know I shall." Susan Stone sniffed and dried her eyes on a lace-edged handkerchief. "But I'm afraid I'm good for little. When it comes to earning my own living, I'm all at sea. I've been with you since you were three—learned nothing but how to spend and spend. You know how extravagant you've always been, Raye."

It came out caustically. Raye wondered why she should be blamed for having given Aunt Susan a luxurious living for so long a time. Prior to coming with her niece, she had kept house for her elderly father, a retired clergyman, who received a small pension from a church fund. Surely, in those days Auntie had enjoyed no luxuries.

On a ragged little sigh, Raye started to leave the room. She looked as forlorn now in her bedraggled rose chiffon gown as she felt, it was plain to be seen that Aunt Susan was to be of small assistance in this emergency.

Raye thought of her dozens of alertly attentive friends. Of course, there was nothing to worry about. She would be offered all sorts of ways to recoup her fortune; good positions would open up for her and sound money-making ideas would be offered. Her friends wouldn't let her down.

Raye whirled about. She bent over her aunt and lightly touched her lips to a damp cheek.

She told her leniently, "We'll have clearer brains after a few hours sleep, dear. I'm going to toss worry over my shoulder and see what dreaming will do. Good night, auntie—or rather good morning."

It was 4 a. m. and the outside world was still being deluged with sheets of rain. Raye could hear it swishing against windows as she dragged herself through the upper hall, her head aching too much now to allow clear thinking.

She entered her lovely chartreuse sitting room and immediately dismissed her dozing maid Celia.

She thought remorsefully, "I should have told Celia not to wait up for me. The poor girl! Her job isn't any too easy."

Suppose she herself had to wait around all night just to put a thoughtless butterfly to bed! How would she feel? A shiver of consternation went through her at the thought.

It was odd, though, that she had never been particularly aware of working girls before, she decided. She wondered now why she hadn't organized a club for them—or done something. She wondered if the personal touch all along the line wouldn't have been much better than the hundreds of checks she had written for various sorts of charities. More than a little she wondered why, in the midst of her own harrowing problems, she should be thinking about any one but herself.

She scowled over this and began peeling off the sticky chiffon gown and her damp underthings. Perhaps it took a slap at your own security to make you realize the other fellow's necessity. She wondered.

She put on blue silk pajamas and climbed into her lace—canopied bed, her mind revolving now around Hal. If she only dared phone him—to hear him say he loved her so much there was nothing to worry about!

But no doubt Hal was sitting up with his sick child and not giving Raye Stone a thought. After all, Hal was a family man. He had shown that plainly enough tonight.

She closed her twitching, aching eyes on a wave of sheer panic. She acknowledged to herself that she was afraid—desperately afraid of the future and all it could do to her.

By morning the skies had cleared and sunshine played on the velvety green lawns, turned leaves of shrubs, vines and trees on the Stone grounds into glistening green satin, making it one of the loveliest show places in town.

It was going to be another hot day out here on this broad boulevard whose residents would be more or less protected by open spaces and ample shade provided by highly efficient landscape artists not limited in the matter of expense.

Raye woke after a fitful sleep. She yawned, stretched her arms wide—and remembered.

Reluctantly she opened her eyes to the day's brightness, sat up in bed and gazed critically around her. All this charming elegance with which she had been surrounded all her life would now, she presumed, have to be discarded for simpler things. Plainer living quarters for one thing. A sharp shiver of distaste ran through her. She had always taken so much for granted. It was nearly impossible now not to imagine herself in a continuous round of pleasure, nearly unconscious of money, because there was so much of it.

But apparently there was nothing she could do that would set her back in her old sphere—nothing but marrying Hal. So—this was the way out. It would have to be Hal.

Week-End Wardrobe Planned

By SUSAN BARDEN
(Inter. Ill. News Writer)

EVERY DAY the weather is getting more and more perfect, and very soon you'll be gratefully receiving and accepting week-end invitations from your friends in the country.

The first week-ends are usually devoted to long walks, riding, and starting in again on your golf. It will still be too cool for swimming, and usually tennis courts have not been whipped into shape this early. So playsuits, shorts and bathing suits can be eliminated until later on, unless you are one of the lucky ones who lives in a sunny climate.

We are going to give a list of things that will be necessary to your early week-end wardrobe. Never mind all the other fascinating clothes you'll see in the sports shops unless you have money to burn. You can get the first requirements now and build up a country and vacation wardrobe gradually as the weather gets warmer.

Perfect For Traveling.

The suit ensemble is perfect for traveling, town and country. It consists of a suit plus a cape. It is made of lightweight woolen in a black and white check. The cape is skirt length, with a one-button closing and large patch pockets. If you already have an adequate coat the suit may be purchased separately.

The golf dress is something that you will appreciate for more reasons than its smartness. It has big pockets on the skirt to carry golf balls, a leather and elastic belt with room for tees, and a side fastening with an enclosed placket that gives extra freedom. It was designed by Sacson and is made of pre-shrunk corded chambray.

The slacks suit is made along very masculine lines, but tailored in such a fashion that it does the most flattering things to the feminine figure. It maintains all the essential details of man-made suits, yet fits faultlessly. Andrews, of New York, designed this set in flannel to apparently cut inches off the hips and achieve that slim, long-legged look that is so important. The coat has a three-button closing, patch pockets, and can be worn with odd skirts when you don't want to appear in slacks.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

There was something in Dicky's voice which made me suddenly ashamed of my bravado in hiding my recognition of the gangster, so that my husband would not feel it his duty to take the train with me.

"Yes, I did recognize him," I told him meekly.

"And you stalled when I accused you of it," he said sternly. "You didn't intend that I should come on the train at all."

"No, I didn't," I admitted.

"Why?" He shot the query at me.

"Because," I said faintly, "I was afraid—you are always so foolhardy, so ready to dash into danger—I was afraid—you might get hurt."

"You unmitigated — and adorable goose!" he apostrophized. "For absolute dumbness, trot right to the head of the class. You sure lead the field! Did it ever occur to your alleged brain what might happen to you in this almost deserted car, with that gangster on your trail?"

"I had a very good idea, after he came in," I said meekly.

"Did he hurt you in any way?" he demanded quickly.

"No, except my pride," I told him demurely. "He took my little pistol away from me, without my being able to do a thing about it."

My husband swore vehemently. I suspected he did it partly to hide the amusement which he knew would hurt me. But I knew, and hugged the knowledge to my heart, that he was genuinely angry at the gangster's impudence, as he always is at anyone who offers me the slightest disrespect.

"I hope you tied those shoe strings so hard he can't get them loose until he finds a jagged stone to cut them," he said viciously.

"I did my best," I assured him.

"And now," he demanded, with another change of tone, "tell me everything that bird said and did from the minute he entered the car."

"What about your telling me how you managed those almost impossible stunts of shutting off the lights and stopping the train?" I countered.

"Later," he said, and there was a note so inexorable in his voice that I immediately began the tale of the gangster's actions while he was seated opposite me.

Dicky listened quietly until I had finished.

"Where did you hide the letter?" he asked. "You said when he couldn't find the letter, he did thus and so, but you didn't specify where it was."

"Please get up," I answered, standing myself. "I'm afraid the thread will break if I'm not careful."

"What the devil?" he began, then watched me carefully as I found the knotted thread which indicated the position of the letter, and then, thrusting my hand down into the aperture between the seat cushion and the wood, brought up the letter. Miraculously, the string did not break, and Dicky looked at it with respect.

"To quote Mrs. Ticer, 'you are the beatinest'," he said. "And so, he didn't get even an inkling of the letter's contents."

"No, you appeared just in the nick of time for that," I told him. "And now, that I've told you everything I know, I want you to explain your activities. I'm simply dying of curiosity. How did you manage all those miracles, anyway?"

SPRING SONG

As we advance into Spring, the fastidious woman, who has been using more cotton lingerie year after year because of its unequalled coolness, absorbency and washability, will want to plan her lingerie wardrobe. After studying her needs the Cotton-Textile Institute suggests a minimum of:

Three tailored cotton slips for dark town dresses or ginghams and chambrays;

Two dainty lace-trimmed slips and pantie sets to add glamour to Summer sheers and blouses;

Two batiste girdles and two bras of batiste or eyelet embroidered pique;

Three or more batiste and lawn nighties;

One sheer robe to match a gown and one chintz or seersucker robe.

Isolation as Punishment Advised

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS Ph. D.

Much advice to parents is from those who think in terms of a school group. Discipline in the nursery school or kindergarten or elementary grade is relatively easy by means of isolation of the child who offends the group. Curiously enough most such advisers fail to see how different the home is from the schoolroom. In the average home there are not children to be isolated from. Usually it merely means sending the child to his room away from the annoyed parent. That, indeed, may prove a pleasure to the child. While isolated he is strongly inclined to get into some added mischief seeming to deserve further punishment. Then how will isolation be effective? A mother writes of her boy 3½:

"I have tried making him sit in his room. One day while there for punishment he tore the pages from his favorite story book."

Sit Doing Nothing.

A wiser and more practical means of punishment of the child under eight or 10 is assignment to sit doing nothing, for a definite period of time, at a certain place in the room where he all the while is clearly seen by the punisher. Of course the child must stay in the assigned place until the punishment is over. Early teach him the meaning of "No." Without it all punishment becomes a mockery and emotional torment for every one concerned.

If isolation works I'm for it, but I want first to be sure it really works. No punishment can merely fail. When it fails to attain its purpose it does more; it creates resentment, builds up barriers between child and parent and engenders rebelliousness and disregard for constituted authority.

No Indeterminate Sentence.

Whether you sentence your child to sit in a certain place or to go to his room, don't, if you wish to get results, tell him to stay there until he can be good or until you say, "Now you may go"—as generally is advised. No indeterminate sentence for children. Always state how long the punishment must last. Then he has no inducement to plead or argue or play upon your feelings. Accordingly he soon learns to face his punishment stoically and to profit from it.

"To punish or Not to Punish: When and How" is the title of one of 15 pamphlets I have written on the baby and young child, being popular presentation of my university lectures to parents of pre-school children. A list of these pamphlets and information on how to get them may be had by writing to me at 235 E. 45th St., New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Solving Parent Problems.

Q. Should we always aim to suit the punishment of the child to his offense?

A. No: some efforts to do so prove absurd. The important things is that the punishment shall render repetition of the offense less likely to occur.

SWEETBREADS

Sweetbreads require a little special treatment before they are cooked. Soak sweetbreads in cold water for half an hour. Drain and simmer 20 minutes in water with vinegar and salt added. Put in a teaspoon of salt and 2 tablespoons of vinegar for 6 cups of water.

Drain the cooked sweetbreads and cover for 5 minutes with cold water. Discard the loose membranes and the sweetbreads are ready to be broiled, browned or added to any creamed or escalloped mixture.

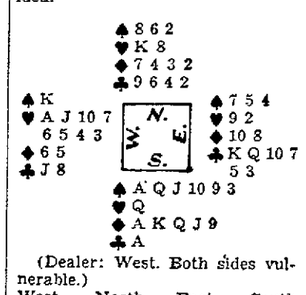
REFUSING TO BITE

DID YOU ever see an opponent make what seemed like a palpably bad play, so very bad that you could not consider it possible unless he was doing it intentionally? In a case like that, what would you do? If he was a good player, wouldn't you consider that he had some very good reason for the play? Indeed you would, and a bit of thought might enable you to figure out just what was the big idea.



(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
3 ♥	Pass	Pass	4 ♥
Pass	4 NT	Pass	6 ♠

After that weird bidding, West laid down his heart A and then stopped to study the dummy. He didn't wait more than just a few moments, however, but led his heart J quickly enough to make it look at first like a careless play. At least that is the way it appeared to South.

Mr. South then put on his thinking cap. There was no chance that West would be leading carelessly, when a slam contract was at stake, he decided. West had, of course, seen the drop of the Q, and was sure to have so many hearts himself that South was bound to be blank in the suit. Why, then, should West put the dummy in the lead and at the same time enable South to get a discard on the heart K?

South decided that West was making it easy for him to finesse trumps, because he held the singleton spade K. Consequently South played to his spade A on the third trick, dropped the K and so made his contract.

After the hand was over, a kibitzer remarked that it would have been still more brilliant work by West if he had held a small singleton trump and was trying to create the illusion that he had a singleton K or Q. In that case, South's effort to drop it with the A would have set up an otherwise impossible trick for East.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, May 2.

According to the general trend of the lunar transits this period is one of major expansion and the unexpected and unpredictable characterizing all mundane affairs. Unforeseen change as well as outstanding developments of a radical or reformatory nature may be impending, and the individual life prepared to assume large responsibility and leadership in the new order may be greatly benefited. In a routine way this day will bring due recognition and reward for service well-rendered, with private satisfactions.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year of major importance in the march of human destiny. There may be crises and high adventures and romance to which the prepared life will respond with much expansion, advancement and personal gratification. There may be unpredictable and spectacular visitations plunging the life into new walks and fresh ventures, of a creative and dramatic scope beyond the power to analyse. Minor anxieties should melt away.

A child born on this day should have fine sterling qualities for a successful and happy life, its real worth finding proper rewards and personal gratifications.

FLAVOR YOUR ROAST.

Spread apple or crabapple jelly over the top of roasting ham, veal or pork for the last 30 minutes. The jelly gives an appetizing flavor and glossy brown top.

DESSERT SAUCES

Leftover fruit sauces—and especially apple sauce—really go dessertward when made like this. Fill tart pans with rich pastry. Fill with the sauce and lightly spread with meringue. Bake 10 minutes in a moderate oven. Serve warm or cold.

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

Harry Mehock has been showered for the past week with congratulatory missives regarding the success of the Mansfield Relays.

And the Relays director can take it. Not a bit puffed up about it, but very happy he is, and all Mansfield should be feeling the same way.

Mansfield merchants who contributed to the fund which made the Relays possible, and citizens who opened their homes to the schoolboy athletes for a night's lodging, can step right up and take a bow with Mehock.

If ever a sports event could claim the honor of being a civic enterprise and civic asset, the Relays certainly can claim it. The name and fame of Mansfield has gone out to all corners of the land in a five-state area, not because a lot of boys ran, and jumped, and threw things around, but because of the fine treatment Mansfield gave those boys.

Here are just a few excerpts from a few letters received by Mehock:

Paul Wagner, Donora, Pa.—"We wish to think you and your organization for the fine treatment afforded us at the Relays. My boys will long cherish, and probably never forget their experiences at Mansfield. We hope to be back again next year."

Ellis Vander Pyle, Station WGAR, Cleveland—"May I congratulate you on another outstanding meet. I don't believe that any high school relays in the nation draw either in number or in calibre the entries which show at Mansfield each year."

Eric Calhoun, Cleveland East Tech.—"In a great many respects the meet was the best one that you have run."

J. M. Gordan, Cleveland West Tech—"Once again I want to congratulate you on a very fine meet. It was one of the best in Mansfield Relays history. The boys all enjoyed themselves and commented on the fine hospitality. They will look forward to coming down again next year."

This is just a sample of the letters that Mehock has received. But while they have put a permanently broad grin on Harry's sun-tanned countenance, the man still packs a peeve. It's at Coach George Gauthier of Ohio Wesleyan.

"Gauthier told the crowd at the Wesleyan Relays last Saturday that his meet was the biggest in the country," Mehock reports. "He had 48 class A schools and a flock of class B's. Gauthier should come to Mansfield some spring and see a real track meet."

Mister Mehock and his meet
Must take the bitter with the sweet,
An old-fashioned will give you jitters
If you take it without a dash of bitters.

Tim Mangan, Mansfield Braves' catcher, wants his wallet back.

He doesn't care so much, he says, for the little bit of dough it contained, but he would like to get back his driver's license, social security card, and other identification marks.

Tim went to a movie and one of the short features was the short way he came away from there. He got caught short when someone lifted that wallet.

National Flag Race Tightens

Typical Spring Squeeze Staged By Senior Loop.

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer.

The National league race is in its typical spring squeeze, tighter than the cover on a baseball.

The Brooklyn Dodgers climbed into first place Monday by winning their seventh straight game. Tuesday they won their eighth and slipped into a tie. Yesterday they won their ninth in succession and dropped into second place.

This would seem to be going full speed forward in reverse and that may be just as clear as trying to explain the actual jam now involving the Dodgers and the St. Louis Cardinals.

Brooklyn has won 13 games and lost 4 for a .765 percentage while St. Louis has a record of 10 and 3 for .769. Actually, on the basis of games won and lost, the Dodgers are in front of the Redbirds by a full game, but because the Cardinals have played fewer games, and lost less, they have an advantage in percentage.

This edge will continue to accrue to St. Louis as long as it wins, even though the Dodgers extend their streak.

Johnny Vander Meer put the brakes on Brooklyn for seven innings yesterday, scattering three singles and striking out eight while his teammates routed Kirby Higbe for a 3-0 lead. But in the eighth inning Dixie Walker and Joe Medwick hit home runs, sandwiched around a walk, to tie the score and in the ninth Mickey Owen and Peewee Reese smacked a pair of doubles for a run to win 4-3.

The Cardinals hopped on Hal Schumacher for a dozen hits, including homers by Country Slaughter and Johnny Mize, to whip the New York Giants again 6-4.

The Chicago Cubs clustered four runs in the first and four more in the eighth to blast the Boston Bees (beg pahdon, the Braves) 9-4, with the help of four Boston errors.

Cy Blanton, a castoff of the Pittsburgh Pirates, kept ten hits scattered and struck out six as the Phillies pummeled the Pirates 8-4.

The Cleveland Indians extended their winning string to six by overtaking the Philadelphia Athletics 6-5 on Ken Keltner's two-run homer with two out in the ninth inning.

The Detroit Tigers finally roused from their hitting slump to roar out with 18 hits and subdue the Boston Red Sox 12-8.

The Chicago White Sox held onto second place in the junior circuit by beating the Washington Senators 5-1.

Joe Gordon and Marius Russo led the New York Yankees to vengeance against the St. Louis Browns, 7-1. Russo scattered eight hits and shut out his foes for six stanzas. Joe Gordon made four of the Yanks' 14 blows, including a homer, and drove in four runs.

Mid-A Opens Flag Chase

Eight-Club Circuit To Open Season Tonight.

ZANESVILLE —(AP)— Swelled to an eight-team circuit by the return of three old-timers, the Middle-Atlantic baseball league opens the 1941 campaign tonight.

To start what President Elmer Daily predicts will be a "whale of a season," the Erie, Pa., lads will be attempting to drive the ball out of Zanesville's park; Youngstown plays at Charleston, Akron goes to Springfield and Canton is scheduled at Dayton.

Erie, Zanesville and Springfield are the old-timers returning to the circuit, with Springfield taking over the franchise held by Portsmouth, in last year's six-team league.

Daily, here to see two of the newcomers tangle, said "we are very optimistic about the 1941 season."

"Employment is gaining everywhere, so there's reason to believe our 'gate' will be higher," he said "We'll play practically all our games at night when the fans have a chance to get out to the park without taking time off from their jobs."

Opening games in all the league cities will be played at night, with the exception of Erie. All games during the campaign will be night contests except Sunday games at Erie where a Pennsylvania law bans baseball after 7 p. m.

A 136-game schedule will be played, with the four top teams meeting in the Shaughnessy playoff at the end of the season. Double headers are booked for Memorial day, July 4 and Labor day, with single contests on all other dates except where postponements force the teams to a two-a-day routine.

FRIENDLY HOUSE TO SPONSOR BALL LEAGUE

Friendly House will again sponsor a Junior Baseball league this year. All boys under 15 years of age can play. The first meeting will be held at the Friendly House Wednesday night, May 7, at 7:30. All managers who are planning on entering their teams are requested to be present. Only eight teams will be taken.

Walters Gets Fireman Job

'Put Out Those Dodgers,' Says Bill McKechnie.

BROOKLYN—(AP)—A year ago today the cry went out for somebody to stop the Brooklyn Dodgers after they had won nine games in a row. The stalwart who answered was Bucky Walters and he did it.

Today the same cry goes out for the same reason and the same stalwart is the main hope of Manager Bill McKechnie of the world champion Cincinnati Reds to pull out of here with at least one of the four games. Three of the same have gone to the Brooks by virtue of hard-hitting, heads-up baseball.

Curt Davis is the Brooklyn reliance for duplication of or improvement on yesterday's 4 to 3 achievement, which looked like a cinch for back-coming Johnny Vander Meer until the eighth inning.

The Reds had given him a three-run lead. However, Johnny threw a home-run ball, with Dixie Walker taking full advantage thereof, walked Cookie Lavagetto, and threw another home run ball to Ducky Medwick to tie the score.

In the ninth he let Mickey Owen, who had fanned twice previously, hit a double, and Fireman Joe Beggs came in. But Joe didn't have time to get the pressure up and Peewee Reese hit another double for the winning run.

The Reds blew enough scoring chances to win a half dozen ball games, with Ernie Lombardi being unable to knock men around three times

Frank McCormick got his third homer in as many days and his fifth of the year in the fifth and Bill Werber and Mike McCormick pulled a double steal, Bill scoring, in the same inning.

Howell Clicks With Fans

Chunky Murry Connects For Four In Row.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Chunky Murray Howell, 33-year-old rookie outfielder, is the current "people's choice" of Cleveland baseball fans.

He came through for a fourth consecutive time as a pinch-hitter yesterday and as a result the Indians edged Philadelphia 6 to 5 on a brilliant three-run rally in the ninth inning.

Two men were out when the 205-pound slugger stepped to the plate. Lster McCrabb, the Athletics' "control" pitcher, worked so carefully on Howell that he walked him. Then with McCrabb unnerved and the Indians confident, Roy Weatherly doubled and Ken Keltner homered to climax the "Merriwell" finish.

The triumph ran Cleveland's victory string to six and put it up to Bob Feller today to make it seven in the finale with Philadelphia. Connie Mack picked Jack Knott to stop the Redskins.

Press box observers called the Howell-Weatherly-Keltner rally one of the most thrilling ever staged at historic League park. The circuit blow was Keltner's only hit of the game, but Weatherly earlier rapped a single and a home run.

Jim Bagby started for the Indians, but gave way to a pinch-hitter in the sixth. Ken Jungels and Harry Eisenstat finished, with the latter receiving credit for the victory. Despite the use of three Cleveland hurlers the Athletics got only seven hits, including a double and a home run by Benny McCoy.

When Bagby left the game, Cleveland was trailing 3 to 0 Jeff Heath's home run netted the first run in the seventh, with Weatherly's four-base blow, Lou Boudreau's double and singles by Hal Trosky and Heath adding two more in the semi-final inning.

The Athletics meanwhile picked up two runs in the eighth when McCoy drove one of Jungels' fast balls over the fence to score McCrabb.

Boston arrives tomorrow for a two-game series, followed by Washington and New York.

BROWN AND FESLER TO TEACH SUMMER SCHOOL

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Head football Coach Paul E. Brown and Wesley Fesler, former Buckeye All-America end, were added today to the faculty of Ohio State university's physical education summer course which starts June 24.

Brown will teach elementary and advanced courses in football, while Fesler will offer courses in basketball and baseball coaching. Fesler, for several years Harvard's head basketball coach, was chosen recently as Connecticut Wesleyan's head football mentor.

Derby Fever Grips Colonels

Hard-Boot Country Has Guessing Contest.

LOUISVILLE, Ky — (AP) — War news was all but shunted to the sidelines today as this horse loving community plunged headlong into its annual guessing game.

It was: who will win the $75,000 Kentucky derby over Churchill Downs' classic mile and a quarter late Saturday afternoon?

Eleven three-year-olds, survivors of an original field of 112, are expected to answer the call to "Boots and Saddles" around 5:45 p. m. eastern standard time.

There's Our Boots, winner of the rich 1940 Belmont futurity which never has sent its victor on to capture the derby; Whirlaway, top money winning two-year-old of last year; Dispose, good enough to whip Florida's top three-year-olds in the Flamingo at Hialeah park and Porter's Cap, who showed the way home in the $50,000 Santa Anita derby and Chesapeake stakes at Havre de Grace.

All but Dispose figure in the bluegrass stakes at Keeneland. Whirlaway because of his fast closing second to Blue Pair in Tuesday's derby trial and Porter's Cap because of his Santa Anita and Chesapeake triumphs and the ownership of Charles S. (Lucky) Howard Lady Luck has been running for Howard since the West Coast automobile dealer purchased Seabiscuit a few years back and there are many who think she'll be on hand again to help Buddy Haas boot the Cap home.

Dispose, however, picked up some of his lost support yesterday when he stepped the derby distance in the fast time of 2:06 3-5 under the watchful eye of Maxie Hirsch, who saddled Bold Venture to win in 1936.

OHIO HURLER FANS 14 FOR PRINCETON

PRINCETON — (UP) — Major league baseball scouts cast their eyes in the direction of Princeton freshman John Eide of Shaker Heights, Ohio, today.

Eide pitched a near-perfect, no-hit game to lead his team to an 8-0 victory over Montclair high yesterday. He fanned 14 and retired, in order, the last 22 men to face him.

A walk, a hit batsman and a force-out, all in the second, allowed three men to get on base.

Hagers Shoots 73 Over Mt. Vernon Layout.

Mansfield High golfers opened their season with a 23 to 1 victory over Mt. Vernon yesterday at the Mt. Vernon Country club's tough and hilly course.

Over the tricky layout where anything under 80 is something for veteran club members to brag about, Al Hager blasted a 73 to pace Coach Oberlander's niblick wielders.

Davis and Conjenovich had 77's and Hagerty went around in 79. Collins shot an 82 and Rudolph an 85.

Compared with these sparkling cards, Mt. Vernon golfers turned in: F. Hill, 82, J. Hill 90, Smith 90, Grass 92, Jones 97, and Brown 98.

The Tyger swingers open their home season tomorrow at Possum Run against Galion.

The remaining schedule:

May 5—at Millersburg, May 8—Mt. Vernon; May 9—Wooster; May 12—Ashland; May 14—Sandusky; May 15—at Ashland, May 17—District tourney at Bucyrus; May 21—Millersburg; May 26—at Sandusky and June 7—at Wooster.

Mike to Pick Battle Site

Conn Manager Objects to Bum-of-Month Club.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Mike Jacobs today will announce the date and battle ground for the Joe Louis and Billy Conn fight for the heavyweight championship of the world. It will be a balmy night in June and Mike will disclose the exact night.

This will set at rest all the rumors of the bout being shunted into July or even later in order to crowd in a Louis and Simon fray, which Conn and his manager fear will encroach on the title tilt. Conn and Ray will be on deck today when the announcement is made.

* * *

When Billy and his manager, Ray, meet in Mike Jacobs' office at the 20th Century Sporting club there will come to light the story of several bitter battles or words over the long distance telephone between Mike and Ray.

The tirade emanating from Pittsburgh concerned Ray's objecting to Louis "a bum a month" activities crowding up on Billy's title bout with Louis.

Today Ray continued the storm. "I object to the Buddy Baer and Louis bout or a Simon and Louis fight coming in ahead of our championship fight with Louis. That, on the face of it, puts Billy in the 'bum a month' class and I protest absolutely. Let Louis rest through the month of May as Billy will do. Louis will belittle Conn if he doesn't. I won't stand for it. Conn is entitled to every respect as the challenger because he is the only one in the world who can whip Joe Louis."

Cards Make Monkeys of So-Called Diamond Experts

By HARRY FERGUSON

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Putting on a very stern face, your correspondent walked over to the little man sitting on the bench and said, "What's the idea of making monkeys of us experts by being on top of the national league when you're supposed to be in second division."

Manager Billy Southworth of the St. Louis Cardinals grinned. Seems his boys either don't know their own strength or have neglected to read what the experts have been writing about them. The Cardinals, as we experts have told you so many times, always look terrible in the spring then come roaring down the stretch in August and September to make a fight for the pennant. But yesterday, with a press box full of experts experting their heads off, the Cardinals beat the Giants and slipped quietly into first place with the season only a little more than two weeks gone.

There were hardly enough customers to make up a quorum at the Polo Grounds when it happened. The rest of the town was over at Ebbets field going happily insane as the Brooklyn Dodgers beat the Cincinnati Reds for their ninth straight victory.

Southworth was extremely philosophical, you might even say nonchalant, about the sad plight of the experts. Somehow you got the idea that it was all right with him if the experts just stewed in the baseball dope they cooked up this spring. And if any expert wanted to get tough about it, Southworth was prepared to refer said expert to his lawyer.

The lawyer was warming up at that moment, getting ready to pitch against the Giants. The lawyer's name is Sam Nahem, a full fledged barrister who wears glasses, has a dignified, deliberate manner on the mound and throws a habeas corpus fast ball and a writ of certiorari curve.

Lawyer Nahem is one of those boys the Cardinals are always taking as excessive baggage in trades and then developing into stars. He was a minor item in the transaction between the Cardinals and Dodgers which sent Ducky Medwick to Brooklyn.

* * *

The other day he let the Pittsburgh Pirates down with three hits and yesterday he pitched seven nice innings against the Giants although in the eighth his control became non compos mentis, as they say in appellate court, and he had to have a relief pitcher. But the day Lawyer Nahem is waiting for is when he can start against the Dodgers. He struggled for five years to get on the Brooklyn team and finally was traded away without even making the grade. An urge for revenge is deep in the lawyer's heart.

41-Team Loop Lifts Curtain

Pen Ball Tossers Get Crowd For Opener.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — One of Ohio's biggest baseball loops—the 41-team league inside Ohio penitentiary walls—was scheduled to get under way today with several hundred outside guests and 2,000 prisoners sitting in the stands.

The program was replete with all the features of any big league opener. There was a flag-raising ceremony on tap; the pen's 57-piece band, bedecked in new uniforms, was to furnish the music, and Charles L. Sherwood, state welfare director, was to toss out the first ball.

The band was to lay aside its prison gray garb and appear in white trousers, blue coats and blue overseas caps.

Warden Frank D. Henderson, entering into the spirit of the gala occasion, declared:

"I predict we'll have a fine season, and we expect to bring in several teams from outside to compete with our all-stars. We won't do any traveling, but will play all our games here on the home lot."

SPORTS GOSSIP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service)—Paste this California special in your derby: Porter's Cap, Dispose, Staretor, in that order. . . . Abe Simon, who has insured his hands for 25 thousand $, is the first pug on record to do same. . . . Lou Tufano was so tickled when his market wise won the Wood memorial last week, he gave Trainer George Carroll and Jockey Don Meade checks for $5,000. . . . Lou Novikoff now warms the bench. It was the old ballyhoo what got him.

YEP, THAT'S THEM.

First place or last, they're the same old Dodgers. . . . The other day they made a double play to start the fifth and the entire crew, pitcher, infielders and outfielders, came charging into the bench thinking the inning was over.

When it came time to introduce Harry Stuhldreher at a Des Moines dinner the other night, the toast master stumbled all over the name, unable to pronounce it. . . . Harry got up and addressed the guy thusly: "That's all right, pardner, I had the same trouble with it until I was eight years old."

CAUGHT ON THE FLY.

Victor O. Rams Sold to Dan Reeves

Chain Grocery Heir Buys Cleveland Grid Club.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Negotiations for the sale of the Cleveland Rams' franchise in the National Profesional Football league ran hot and cold today. Following the decision of the club's board of directors to accept the $150,000 offer of Dan Reeves, wealthy New Yorker.

* * *

Reeves, heir to a chain grocery fortune, was reported from Florida as saying he had not yet received formal acceptance of his offer from the Ram directors.

The Ram directors in turn voted to ask Reeves to put his purchase offer in writing.

Reeves admitted two associates in his negotiations were from Boston and indicated that one of the conditions of his purchase would be immediate transfer of the club, including Coach Dutch Clark, to the eastern city.

However, it was considered likely that even should Reeves buy the team the Rams would play their 1941 games in Cleveland because of difficulties involved in rearranging the schedule.

The Rams board of directors considered selling the franchise to recoup large losses incurred since the team entered the national league in 1937.

acteria, Not Rabbits, Champs At Reproducing

A JOLLA, Cal. —(INS)— Those o joke about prolific rabbits n't know their biology very ll; sea-going bacteria are the mpion reproducers.

So claims Dr. Claude E. Zoell,, assistant professor of mane microbiology at the Uniersity of California's Scripps stitute of Oceanagraphy.

Marine bacteria are the mighty es of the deep and have far ching effects upon the chemical logical and physical processes he ocean, says Dr. ZoBell. Even ugh they are so small they can seen only through the micrope, the standing crop of bacia in the ocean is approximately 000,000 tons

If they multiply once a day, the generation time of some nown to be less than an hour annual crop of marine bacteria uld exceed three trillion tons, uming that they die as fast as y multiply to maintain equilm," estimates Dr. ZoBell.

EXPERT ASSERTS THERE'S NO SAFE WAY TO HANDLE BOMB

PITTSBURGH— (INS) —Take it from an expert, there is absolutely no known sure and safe manner in which to handle a bomb.

The authority for this statement is Donald J. Parsons, connected with the Federal Bureau of Investigation's Washington laboratories, who has made a specialized study of the explosive field for many years.

Neither dousing a bomb in water nor in oil is certain to prevent it from exploding, he warned, adding:

"None of us know what to do. After we have taken the necessary action to protect life, then we can attempt to diminish property damage There is no safe procedure."

He recommended that in most instances people be cleared away from the possible explosive area and then the bomb set off without attempting to remove it.

He did admit, however, that bombs and explosives set off during the present emergency seem to be concentrated in industrial sites, whereas they had formerly been reported set in or near private homes. There are no available figures to cite instances, he said.

Parsons pointed out that approximately 300,000,000 pounds of dynamite are used in the country every year, and then added:

"This explosive is altogether too available to the saboteur."

There are no bounds into which the acts of sabotage may be classified, the technical expert maintained, just as there apparently is no classification into which saboteurs themselves may fit.

President Andrew Jackson was the posthumous son of Andrew Jackson, who came to America from Northern Ireland.

Exhibit Reveals Books Barred By Nazis In France

PRINCETON, N. J.—(INS)—Hitler's attempt to subjugate the people in the occupied areas of France is graphically illustrated in a display of books in the Princeton university library that have been banned by the Nazi government from use in the conquered country.

Most of the books named in a list issued by Paris publishers are taken from the fields of history, geography and politics. Emil Ludwig's biography of President Roosevelt is included as are the works of Thomas Mann, Albert Einstein and H. G. Wells.

Even a French translation of Hitler's "Mein Kampf" is banned from the use of the French people. The Nazi bible is presumed to be restricted for the German reading public and is not to be perused by a conquered race.

This is THE WHITE BREAD YOU should serve YOUR family

Workers, everywhere—at the desk, in the factory, on the farm——must be strong, vigorous, steady-nerved. That's why better nutrition is so vital . . . not only in connection with National Defense, but as part of the newly-instituted national program for a more vigorous America. Bread is a popular food in universal use—enriched with Vitamins and Iron, it makes an added supply of helpful nutrients easily available to all! Serve NICKLES Enriched White Bread today and every day! You'll like its tender, fine-textured whiteness, and its taste-pleasing wheatiness. The Vitamin and Iron enrichment—added according to the wishes of the Food and Nutrition Committee of The National Research Council—in no way changes the fine appearance and flavor that this bread has always had.

Each loaf contains a minimum of:

THIAMINE (VITAMIN B,) 1 mg.: The "Morale Vitamin," essential to normal nerve functioning; promotes growth; is needed to help the body turn carbohydrate foods (starches and sugar) into useful energy. ● THE P-P FACTOR (AN ESSENTIAL OF THE VITAMIN B COMPLEX) 4 mg.: Helps maintain normal functioning of the digestive tract and of the skin. IRON—4 mg.: Needed to help the body build red blood cells.
